A STATE, NO MORE THAN A MAN, CANNOT HONORABLY WITHHOLD PAYMENT EARNED BY THOSE WORKING FOR IT

SENATE PRESIDENT AND THE SPEAKER URGE TAX REFORM

Revision of Our System of Raising Revenue Regarded as Imperative Issue of the Session.

MANY MEMBERS FAVOR ACTION THIS SUMMER

Constitution's Editorial Receives Hearty Indorsement From Prominent Representatives and Wright.

With the president of the state senate and the speaker of the house both calling attention to the urgency of tax revision legislation at this session of the general assembly, and with a large number of senators and representatives who have been interviewed on the subject declaring it to be the really vital issue to be considered this year, the prospect for the enactment of a good remedial measure at an early date seems most encouraging.

It is hot customary for the presiding officers of the two branches of the legislature to declare an interest in matters of legislation, as their duty requires them to hold an impartial balance in all matters of debate, but so urgent does the question of tax revision, including as it does the prompt payment of teachers and of all other obligations of the state, appear to them, that they felt called upon to give attention to it in their opening speeches. On this subject Speaker Burwell said:

System Antiquated and Unjust.

"We will be called upon to correct the present evils in our taxing system, a system which is now so antiquated—in many instances so inadequate and so unjust—and to correct these evils in such manner as will equalize the burdens of taxation and adjust the present iniquities and inequalities of our law, offers to us the highest opportunity for the exercise of wise statesmanship and real service to the state."

President Anderson declared that the real trouble with our state was not extravagance in appropriations, because the appropriations that had been made were necessary in order that the state's institutions should not starve to death.

Anderson for Greater Revenue.

What was needed was that the state's revenue be increased and adequate provision made in order that its institutions should not go begging and that its public school teachers should receive prompt payment of their salaries. To compass this it was necessary that the state's antiquated and outworn system of revenue raising be put on a different basis, and that at once.

As an index of the interest that is being manifested in this great reform it is noteworthy that two measures looking to revision were introduced in the house on the first day of the session.

One was the bill of Representative Lipscomb, of Clarke, to create state and county boards of tax equalizers, a complete copy of which is printed on another page of this issue.

The other was a resolution of Mr. Gower, of Crisp, providing for a joint committee to go into the subject of tax revision and make a report next year.

While it is too early as yet to make an adequate forecast of the situation, there are those who say that the line-up of the real friends and the secret enemies of tax revision will be along the two courses suggested by the measures outlined above.

Opponents Seek Delay.

Of course no one who knows Representative Gower will think of charg-

HOUSE GETS DOWN TO REAL BUSINESS ON THE FIRST DAY

Large Number of Bills Introduced on Wednesday, Thus Breaking a Habit of Many Years' Standing.

NO FREAK MEASURES OFFERED IN HOUSE

William H. Burwell Has No Opposition for Speaker and Mr. McMichael Is Named Speaker Pro Tem.

Judging from the straight-from-the-shoulder manner in which the Georgia legislature, which met for its fifty-day session Wednesday morning at 10 o'clock, got down to business, this promises to be one of the busiest sessions in the history of the lower house of this state.

Electing William H. Burwell, of Hancock county, as speaker, and re-electing John T. Boifeuillet as clerk, without disorder or confusion of any sort, the house immediately declared itself organized and ready for business and proceeded forthwith to do business.

No Early Adjournment.

By unanimous consent, at the request of Representative Blackburn, of Fulton county, the house early decided upon no adjournment until all of Wednesday's business was disposed of. Whereupon, after the election of its remaining officers, a number of bills were introduced in the house on the opening day of its deliberations for the first time in a number of years.

Although the house was not scheduled to convene until 10 o'clock, by 9 o'clock the house chamber and lobbies were filled with gossipping, good-natured legislators, and spectators were pouring into the galleries. By the time the session was called to order standing room could hardly be found.

Promptly on time the gavel of Clerk Boifeuillet came down upon the speaker's desk, launching the 1913 session of the legislature. Dr. John E. White, pastor of the Second Baptist church, of Atlanta, invoked divine blessing upon the deliberations of the body.

Oath of Office Administered.

At the calling of the roll each member walked to the clerk's desk, where Chief Justice W. H. Fish impressively administered the oath of office, pledging each member to the support of the constitution and the use of his best ability in shaping the laws to the welfare of the state.

Immediately upon the assumption of business, L. R. Akin, of Glynn county, was upon his feet to place W. H. Burwell, of Hancock county, in nomination for speaker of the house. When Mr. Akin had concluded his brief speech commending Speaker Burwell, seconds popped up in all parts of the house with the alacrity of a string of fire-crackers on the glorious Fourth. Harris, of Washington; Slade, of Muscogee; Myrick, of Chatham, and Adams, of Hall, were among a score or more who heartily seconded Mr. Burwell's nomination, and exactly, according to prognostications, Mr. Burwell was unanimously elected speaker of the house without opposition. The only thing that prevented Speaker Burwell's lamb-like election from being accomplished by acclamation was the constitutional provision which prevents such proceedings.

Rivals Escort Him to Chair.

The newly-elected speaker's recent rivals, Hardeman, Fulbright and Sheppard, did him the graceful compliment of acting as the committee to escort him to the speaker's chair.

This disposition on the part of his opposition in his race for the chair, linked with the thunderous applause that greeted Speaker Burwell as he was escorted down the aisle, together with the speaker's own expression of deep desire for fair dealing with every one, leads to the hazzard that the domestic life of the new house and its new head will be without serious squabbles.

In his speech of acceptance of the speakership, Speaker Burwell made himself clear upon the subject of tax reform, urging that the house take the matter up and give it its best thought and dellberation.

Address of Speaker.

Among other things, he said:

"For the past several years since the limitation of 5 mills was wisely placed upon the taxing power of the general assembly, appropriations have been from time to time increased beyond the revenues of the state until today we find a deficit in our state treasury which the honor and integrity of the state demands we should correct.

"To do this, and to do it wisely, will require our best thought and highest patriotism. In its consideration we should on the one hand keep in mind the demands and needs of the state and her various institutions, and with liberal justice provide for all, in order that the dignity of the state may be preserved and her institutions fostered, protected and developed; but, on the other hand, I can but beg you remember the present condition of our people.

"Let me assure you I am no pessimist, and I fully realize and appreciate that Georgia is rich and prosperous in the possession of boundless natural resources, more varied perhaps than any of her sister states, and that her basic credit is well founded and established beyond the thought of criticism; yet it is a manifest fact to all in close touch with our constituency that the crop conditions of the past two years

PAY DAY!

PARTED FROM JOB, HE SCORES WILSON

Federal Investigator Herrington Attacks the President About McNab Case—Explanation Pitiable.

San Francisco, June 25.—Clayton Herrington, federal investigator of white slave cases for the United States department of justice, who gathered the evidence in the Diggs-Caminetti cases, and who called upon President Wilson to remove Attorney General McReynolds from office for his action in delaying the trials, was suspended from office today on an order from Washington. The order was signed by A. B. Bielaski, chief of the bureau of investigation, department of justice, and was as follows:

"I am advised that telegram has been received by president of the United States sent by you seriously reflecting upon the integrity of attorney general. You are hereby suspended from duty without pay, pending receipt of any explanation you may care to make."

Herrington Attacks Wilson.

Just prior to receiving this information Mr. Herrington had dispatched the following night letter to President Wilson:

"As a citizen of California I charge that officials in the department of justice and of commerce and labor, in disregard of judgments of the courts and in violation of law, have prevented the deportation of French prostitutes i nthis case. I demand an investigation of these matters, complete information as to which is in the files at Washington. On March 14, Secretary Wilson was informed about some of these cases."

In a public statement issued tonight Mr. Herrington said:

"The president approves in words the way in which McReynolds had dealt with the Diggs-Caminetti and Western Fuel cases. He disapproves in deeds by ordering the immediate trial of all the defendants, including those McReynolds tried to save. He ought, therefore, to dismiss McReynolds and retain McNab.

McReynolds and Lord Bacon.

"To sustain a Washington official whose decision he overrules and blame another for doing what he himself now orders done is not only inconsistent and unjust, but is a humiliating evasion of the responsibilities of his high station.

"McReynolds' explanation is even more pitiable. He protests that he is 'profoundly conscious that his acts were free from unworthy motive.' So was Lord Bacon, who accepted bribe money, because it would not influence him. There are influences other than financial ones.

"McReynolds' excuse is that the 'facts were not fresh in his memory,' and he blames McNab for not jogging it a second time. McReynolds needs a better memory, as much as the president needs a better attorney general.

"However, my object has been accomplished. The attorney general has been compelled to order these cases to trial forthwith and the sinister influences to which he yielded have been frustrated."

BUDGET PLAN BEATEN BY HOUSE DEMOCRATS

Hardwick Leads Fight Against the Reform in the Senate Caucus.

Washington, June 25.—House democrats, in caucus today, agreed upon the abolition of the commerce court as a party policy and, turning deaf ears to pleas from their leaders, rejected a plan for the creation of a budget committee to control all appropriations.

Representative Broussard, of Louisiana, champion of the commerce court, precipitated caucus action on the mooted question by offering a resolution to authorize hearings on the Sims bill to abolish the court. Speaker Clark denounced the tribunal as useless and expensive, and Representative Adamson, of Georgia, chairman of the interstate commerce committee, offered a resolution declaring it to be the sense of the caucus that the court be abolished during the present session, due care being taken to protect and provide for jurisdiction over pending and future litigation. The resolution was adopted by viva voce vote.

Democratic Leader Underwood led the fight for the budget plan and had the support of Speaker Clark, Representative Fitzgerald, chairman of the appropriations committee, and other powerful house leaders. Mr. Underwood declared that appropriations were running beyond bounds under the present system and urged reform through a committee on "estimates and expenditures," with control over all appropriations and power to fix the maximum for each session of congress. This practically was the plan originally advocated by Representative Sherley, of Kentucky.

Opposition to the proposition developed immediately, led by Representatives Tribble and Hardwick, of Georgia. Representative Tribble insisted that a budget committee centralizing control of appropriations among committee chairmen and other ranking members would constitute the "most gigantic trust ever formed."

Mr. Hardwick's resolution to lay the plan on the table was carried, 95 to 80.

THOUSANDS OF MINERS ARE ORDERED TO STRIKE

Trouble in the West Virginia Coal Fields Will Begin July 1.

Charleston, W. Va., June 25.—An official call for a strike of miners in the New River coal field was issued late tonight from the local headquarters of the United Mine Workers of America. Fifteen thousand men are employed in that field.

The strike order is effective July 1. Miners are also expected to strike tomorrow in the Cabin Creek field, while conditions in the Paint Creek district are very uncertain.

HOWARD THOMPSON TO BE U. S. MARSHAL

He Will Be Nominated Today. Hitch Given Place by Bryan and A. O. Blalock Will Be Collector.

By John Corrigan, Jr.

Washington, D. C., June 25.—(Special.)—The following political plums are about to fall into the hands of Georgians as the result of a compromise reached between Senators Bacon and Hoke Smith on patronage:

Howard Thompson, of Gainesville, Ga., will tomorrow be nominated by President Wilson as marshal for the northern judicial district, to succeed Walter H. Johnson, resigned.

Calvin M. Hitch was today named by Secretary of State Bryan to a position in the Latin-American bureau of the state department at a salary of $3,000 a year.

Blalock to Succeed Jackson.

A. O. Blalock is, in consequence of Hitch's appointment, unopposed for collector of internal revenue, to succeed Henry S. Jackson.

David C. Barrow will be collector of the port of Savannah.

Joseph S. Davis will not be opposed for marshal of the southern district.

Upon receiving definite assurance today from Secretary of State Bryan that Mr. Hitch had been assigned to a responsible position in the state department, Senator Bacon wrote the president withdrawing his opposition to Mr. Blalock for collector. He had formerly indicated to the president in writing that he was urging Mr. Hitch for that position or something just as good.

Senator Smith Expected It.

When told of Senator Bacon's action, Senator Smith said he had been expecting it.

"I strongly indorsed Mr. Hitch for this position, and made several trips to the state department in his behalf. I was assured a month ago by Mr. Bryan that he would appoint Hitch."

Asked if he would oppose Mr. Davis for marshal of the southern district, Senator Smith replied:

"I shall not take any hand in that matter, and have so advised all who have written me from the southern district."

"Hands Off," for Smith.

No information will be given out as to the nature of the charges said to have been filed against Mr. Davis. The determination of Senator Smith to pursue a "hands off" attitude toward appointments in the southern district, however, means that the opponents of Senator Bacon's nominees will find little encouragement or support.

The term of George F. White as marshal in the southern district expired several months ago. He has held on pending the appointment of his successor. In the northern district Mr. Johnson, after sixteen years of service, has handed in his resignation to take effect July 1. It is expected that Mr. Thompson will be confirmed by the senate at its next meeting after tomorrow.

CONSPIRACY IS CHARGED TO MAKE HARRIMAN LINES PAY MONEY TO A LOBBYIST

FREE SUGAR COMES IN THE YEAR 1916; FREE WOOL AT ONCE

ONLY SIX SENATORS VOTE FOR TARIFF ON SUGAR

And Same Number Oppose Free Wool—Approval of Schedules Comes After a Debate in Caucus.

Washington, June 25.—Free sugar in 1916 and free raw wool are now established in the tariff revision bill, having been approved late today by the democratic caucus of the senate after a two days' fight. The sugar schedule as reported by the majority members of the finance committee and practically as it passed the house was approved by a vote of 40 to 6. Free raw wool as submitted by the majority and just as it passed the houee swept the senate caucus by a vote of 41 to 6.

This ratification of President Wilson's tariff policy, he having insisted upon the wool and sugar propositions before tse ways and means committee in the beginning, came after a long series of developments since the tariff bill passed the house in which the president had an active participation.

When the fight of the anti-free sugar and anti-free wool democrats was getting hot the president issued a public statement declaring that any suggestion of compromise on the wool and sugar schedule ideas was absolutely out of the question and later he stirred all administration leaders to action when he made his charge about the existence in Washington of an "insidious lobby" investigation, of which has brought results regarded as favorable to the tariff bill.

Six Senators Who Opposed.

The six democratic senators who voted against free sugar on the final vote approving the schedule were Hitchcock, Nebraska; Newlands, Nevada; Ransdell and Thornton, Louisiana; Shafroth, Colorado; Walsh, Montana.

The six who opposed free raw wool to the end were Chamberlain of Oregon, Newlands, Nevada; Ransdell and Thornton, Louisiana; Shafforth and Walsh.

No attempt was made in the caucus today to bind he members to the action of the caucus. The question will come up when the entire bill has been passed upon. Some members fought it, but administration leaders said tonight they believed only the wo Louisiana senators would ask to be released from the caucus pledge if one is submitted. The general opinion is that a binding resolution will be offered.

Approval of the schedule came after prolonged discussion and after several amendments had been voted down. On some of the amendment the opposition showed more strength, the maximum being ten votes for Senator Shafroth's amendment to the sugar schedule.

Lost by Vote of 37 to 10.

This would have eliminated free sugar and substituted a duty of approximately one-half cent a pound on refined sugar. This amendment was lost by a vote of 37 to 10, Senators Thompson, Chamberlain, Hitchcock, Newlands, Shafroth, Lane, Ransdell, Thornton, Tillman and Walsh voting for it.

When this had been lost, Senator Thompson, of Kansas, offered an amendment to retain the Underwood rate for three years, reducing it 50 per cent in 1916 and 25 per cent each succeeding year until it reached the free list. Senators Chamberlain, Fletcher, Hitchcock, Newlands, Shafroth, Thompson, Tillman and Walsh supported this amendment. The amendment offered by Senator Thornton to eliminate the free sugar provision and maintain the Underwood rates indefinitely was supported only by Senators Ransdell and Thornton.

Senator Walsh offered the amendment to the wool schedule, proposing a duty of 15 per cent ad valorem on first-class wools, and that wools of the second and third classes, such as carpet and clothing wool, be free. This was defeated 39 to 7, Senators voting for it being Chamberlin, Newlands, Ransdell, Shafroth, Thompson, Thornton and Walsh. Three senators were absent, Culberson, Owen and Lewis.

Discussion Das Lively.

Discussion of the issues was lively all day. Senators Ransdell, Thompson, Thornton, Newlands, Lane and Shafroth took up most of the time for the opposition, while the chief administration defenders were Senators James, Thomas and Pomerene. The arguments were long and the weather hot, and most of the senators removed their coats and the privacy of the caucus room

Judge Lovett Tells "Lobby" Probers of Efforts to Make His Company Employ Edward Lauterbach "To Grease the Wheels" in Washington.

CONGRESSMAN RIORDAN MENTIONED BY LOVETT AS INVOLVED IN MATTER

Lovett Says Man Representing Himself to Be Congressman Riordan Called Over the Telephone to Urge Employment of Lauterbach. Lovett Convinced of a Conspiracy to Hold Up Harriman Lines.

Washington, June 25.—Robert Scott Lovett, chairman of the board of directors of the Union Pacific Railroad company, told the senate "lobby" investigating committee tonight that a long continued and determined effort had been made to have Edward Lauterbach, a New York lawyer retained by his company, "to grease the wheels" in Washington and prevent unpleasant agitation in congress against the dissolution plan of the Union Pacific-Southern Pacific systems, ordered by the supreme court and now before the department of justice.

Judge Lovett made no charge that any corrupt methods had been used to secure the employment of Lauterbach. He did swear, however, that some one, purporting to be Congressman Riordan, of New York, over the telephone had urged the retention of the New Yorker and had suggested the likelihood of difficulty in congress which might be averted by his employment as counsel.

A similar telephone conversation had occurred, he said, between a man also representing himself as Mr. Riordan and Maxwell Evarts, counsel for the Southern Pacific.

Lauterbach Tried to Cause Scare.

Otto H. Kahn, of Kuhn, Loeb & Co., a New York banking house interested in Union Pacific, the witness said, had had several conversations with Mr. Lauterbach personally, in which the lawyer had referred to what might be expected from the "radical element" in congress in relation to the dissolution plans of the two roads.

"Mr. Kahn reported to me," says Judge Lovett, "that Mr. Lauterbach had said in substance that a motion was about to be made, I think, in the house of representatives to oppose this proposed dissolution, or the disposition of the stock of the Southern Pacific which is now held by the Union Pacific, and that it probably would also involve a reopening of the money trust inquiry, I think, and some other matter that had been more or less discussed.

"He said that the radical party, as he called them, or the radical faction, were about to commence these efforts, and that they were going to make a point about common banking control—he mentioned some of the congressmen who might lead in this—and he might be helpful in the matter, and that his services were available, if desired."

"Did he state what congressmen they were?" asked Chairman Overman.

Lovett Pays Tribute to Henry.

"Congressman Henry, of Texas, was mentioned," said the witness, "as the leader of the radical faction as he called it. I should like to state in that connection, however, that I have known Mr. Henry for a great many years and I never believed for a moment that there was any connection between this gentleman and Congressman Henry."

Mr. Lovett said he had made no effort to determine whether it was actually Congressman Riordan who had telephoned to him and to Mr. Evarts. He has not doubted it, he said, until he learned recently that many Wall street financial men had been repeatedly called upon by men who falsely represented themselves to be congressmen.

"I now have very serious doubts that it was Congressman Riordan who talked with me over the telephone," he added.

Questioned by the committee Mr. Lovett said Lewis Cass Ledyard, another New York attorney, had been called up by a man purporting to be a congressman, but that Mr. Ledyard investigated and found that he was not. The impersonator, he said, was "seeking to have some other person employed."

"I have heard of a great many people in Wall street being called up by a person purporting to be Congressman Riordan," Mr. Lovett continued. "I am by no means the only one."

Lovett Charges Conspiracy.

Judge Lovett said he ignored the efforts to have Lauterbach employed until he became convinced that a conspiracy had been formed that might succeed in holding up the Union Pacific-Southern Pacific dissolution plans until after July 1. The dissolution plan must be arranged before that date, he added, to avoid a receivership of the stock of the Southern Pacific, which the Union Pacific now owns.

"I believe there was a conspiracy here," said Judge Lovett, "to try to force us to employ some one we did not want to employ, and that the conspirators, after trying various methods, were about to go into the newspapers and create opposition to the plan for the dissolution to the plan that was about to be carried out."

Judge Lovett was asked who he believed the conspirators were. He named Mr. Lauterbach and the man who represented himself to be Congressman Riordan.

"I believe, and my associates on the executive committee believe, that there was another individual in New York, who was the most active agent in it, but I did not come in contact with him nor did any other on the executive committee," said Judge Lovett.

Mr. Lovett did not give this man's name, and the committee did not ask for it.

Judge Lovett told the committee that he made public his charges against alleged lobbyists because he was convinced that "these conspirators" were securing the publication of inspired statements designed to show that the Harriman roads were seeking to bring about an improper control through certain banking interests of not only the Pacific, but the Pennsylvania and Baltimore and Ohio systems.

Never Met Riordan.

After mentioning Representative Riordan's name Mr. Lovett said:

"In mentioning this congressman's name I want to make this statement. I had never met the gentleman; did not know his voice. I do not know whether he was a congressman or not; but he represented himself as Congressman Riordan, of New York. I was told on the telephone that Congressman Riordan wanted to speak to me. He mentioned the name of Edward Lauterbach, one of the members of the New York bar, and I terminated the conversation rather shortly, told him that we had all the counsel we needed and was rather abrup, I think, in closing the interview That is the last communication that I had with Congressman Riordan, if it was Congressman Riordan."

Otto H. Kahn, a partner in Kuhn, Loeb & Comapny, came to him later, Mr. Lovett said, and told him that Mr. Lauterbach had called on him, assured him "that the radical element" in congress was prepared to obstruct the dissolution, investigate the Chicago and Alton re-financing of several years ago, and take up several other matters." Mr. Lauterbach proposed employment, according to Mr. Kahn's statement, but was refused.

Marion Evarts, general counsel for the Southern Pacific, next told him, said Judge Lovett, of a telephone application also purporting to come from Congressman Riordan for the employment of Lauterbach. The witness added that Paul D. Gravath, of New York, one of the attorneys for Kuhn Loeb & Comany, also was mysteriously called by telephone by a man who wanted to talk with him about employing counsel "who would be very helpful at Washington." Cravath had another call of the same character, said Judge Lovett, and in that case he believed the name of Mr. Lauterbach had been mentioned.

Systematic Effort to Inspire Articles.

Judge Lovett said the first publication which convinced him that efforts were being made to misrepresent the Harriman roads in the dissolution case was in a financial news sheet of high standing in New York. He said the character of the article convinced him that a systematic effort was being made to inspire articles that would rouse the desired opposition in congress.

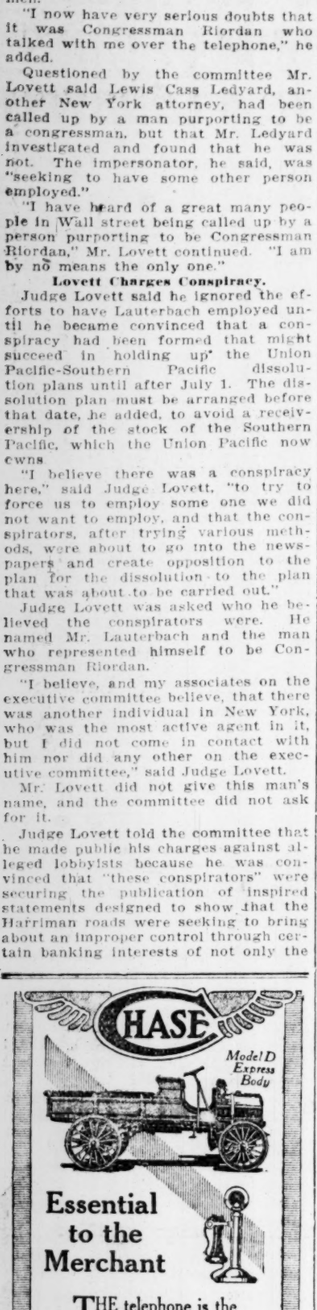

"You believed that the same parties who were thus endeavoring to force the employment you speak about had caused these stories to be circulated for the purpose of arousing hostility towards you?" asked Senator Walsh.

"I believed that, and Mr. Kahn was very positively of that opinion," said Mr. Lovett, "that this newspaper publication to which I referred was inspired by the same parties who were seeking to force relations with us in this matter."

"You have not been approached by any congressman or ex-congressman directly or indirectly?" asked Senator Overman.

"Not by any congressman or ex-congressman directly or indirectly so far as I know, except in the case I have mentioned," answered the witness.

The committee will call Lewis Case Ledyard, the New York lawyer, referred to tonight by Judge Lovett as having received a telephone message from a pseudo congressman. Mr. Ledyard is said to have learned the identity of his interviewer.

SAY LITTLE MACON BOY WAS NOT STEALING RIDE

Macon, Ga., June 25.—(Special.)—The parents of Billy Waller, the little boy who lost his life here last Thursday while climbing off a moving auto truck, are much grieved over the reports that he was "stealing" a ride. They say the boy had secured the permission of the negro driver to ride before he got upon the machine. He was climbing from the machine after having ridden three blocks, when his foot slipped and he fell beneath the rear wheels. He died five hours later.

BLACKBURN TO STEER HOUSE LEGISLATION

Names of Others Slated for Committee Appointments in Both Branches.

It may be stated with authority that R. B. Blackburn, of Fulton, will be the vice chairman of the rules committee of the house of representatives this year. The speaker is ex-officio chairman of the committee on rules.

HON. R. B. BLACKBURN.

This is one of the most important committee assignments, as the rules committee has the shaping of the passage of legislation through the house. It is up to them whether any bill shall take its regular position on the calendar or shall be advanced as a special order.

Mr. Blackburn is known to be strongly in favor of tax revision, and with him at the helm of the steering committee of the house there is an excellent chance for a bill along that line when once it has passed successfully through the preliminary committee consideration, to be given a prompt opportunity for final passage.

Committee Chairmanships.

Speaker Burwell will not announce the standing committees of the house for a week or ten days as yet. The following representatives are said to be slated for leading committees, however: Ways and means, L. R. Akin, of Glynn; appropriations, Crawford Wheatley, of Sumter.

President Anderson, of the senate, will be ready to announce his committees in the next day or two. The following is said to be the slate for the leading chairmanships in that branch: Appropriations, W. W. Stark, of the thirty-third; general judiciary, W. D. McNeil, of the twenty-second; special judiciary, O. H. Elkins, of the fifteenth.

Senator John T. Allen, of the twentieth, Mr. Anderson's rival for the presidency of the senate, may be given his choice between the finance and the committee on constitutional amendments.

NEW DAILY WILL START JULY 1ST AT BRUNSWICK

Brunswick, Ga., June 25.—(Special.) A new afternoon paper will be launched in this city July 1, to be known as the Daily Banner. The new publication will be printed by the Banner Publishing company, which is to be incorporated at $10,000. The principal incorporators are L. P. Artman, formerly of Key West, and E. G. Laird, of this city, who will be actively engaged in publishing the new paper. The plant of The Banner will be modern in every respect.

The evening field has not been occupied in Brunswick since the Brunswick Journal suspended several years ago. Since that time the city has grown wonderfully and that the new paper will be a success is evidenced by the hearty support given the company just organized by local business men.

J. W. Wise, Beaten By a Scratch, Will Again Race for Congress

Hon. J. Walter Wise, of Fayette, who came within a few votes of being sent to congress from the sixth Georgia district last year, and whose nomination was practically conceded until a revision of the Bibb county vote turned the tide in favor of his opponent, Congressman Bartlett, announces his candidacy for the same place next year.

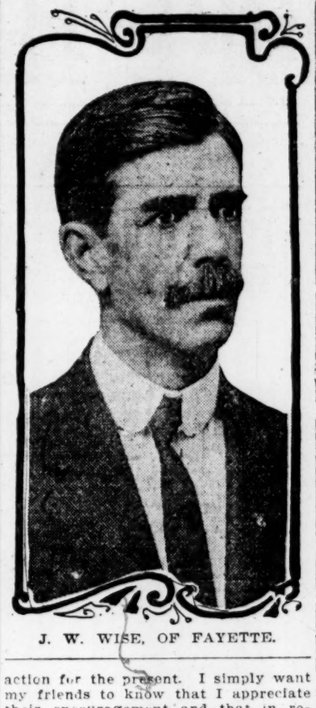

In the last contest for the nomination the district voted as a whole, the candidate receiving the largest vote to be declared the nominee. When the returns were first announced it appeared that Mr. Wise's plurality over Mr. Bartlett was about 200, and he was already receiving congratulations by wire when he got information from Macon to the effect that there had been a change in the count in some of the city precincts, which ordinarily were among the first to have their vote reported. Mr. Wise went at once to Macon and asked for a recount and a checking of the vote in these districts, but the county committee accepted the revised count and the change of more than a hundred votes gave the plurality vote of the district to Mr. Bartlett, who was accordingly declared renominated.

"I never have been exactly satisfied with that," said Mr. Wise yesterday, "but I concluded that the best thing for me to do was to accept it gracefully rather than to plunge my district into the turmoil of a heated contest. I gave the matter this direction when the district committee acted, and as a loyal democrat took my medicine and gave my vote to the nominee.

"From that day to this I have been literally overwhelmed with messages from every county in the district urging me to enter the race again, and scarcely a day passes but that similar letters reach me. Indeed, my correspondence on the subject has assumed such shape that in justice to myself and to my friends it seems to me the best thing for me to do is to let them know that at the proper time I will make formal announcement of my candidacy.

"It is, of course, too early now to begin a canvas for next year's primary and it is not my purpose to take formal action for the present. I simply want my friends to know that I appreciate their encouragement and that in response to a demand so universal throughout my district I have concluded to make known the fact that I will at the proper time actively enter the contest.

"I hope this time to get enough votes in the district to leave room for no possible doubt as to who has the most votes when the polls close on the night of the primary."

J. W. WISE, OF FAYETTE.

Callaway Plans Auto Tours From Atlanta to Athens, Ga.

Crichton C. Callaway, secretary of the Athens chamber of commerce, was in the city on yesterday for the purpose of making preliminary preparations for a scout trip to be made by a committee of the Athens chamber of commerce over the roads between here and Athens.

Realizing that a large number of the 3,000 automobile owners in Atlanta are continually looking around for attractive week-end tours, and also that a great many of them would come to Athens if they had the necessary data, it is Mr. Callaway's purpose to take a scout car over the routes and publish a booklet snowing full road information, data regarding hotel accommodations in Athens, attractive side trips around Athens (and by the way Clarke county, in which Athens is located, claims the best roads in the state), views of the city and other information of interest. These booklets will be placed in the hands of the auto owners and a great many of them will doubtless avail themselves of the opportunity to make this delightful trip.

Athens really has many attractions for the tourist. The Georgian hotel there, one of the handsomest in the state, the University of Georgia, the State College of Agriculture, the State Normal school and the Lucy Cobb institute are all attractive objects of interest. In Athens can be seen the boyhood home of Henry Grady and the old homes of Ben Hill, Howell and Tom Cobb and other great Georgians. There can be seen the home there of which the song "Home, Sweet Home" was written. Athens also boasts of a peculiar relic of the civil war, the only double-barreled cannon in the world. There can be seen there the oldest college building in the south, the first building in the State university which was constructed something over 100 years ago, and there are many things there besides these to interest the tourist.

Mr. Callaway states that Athens' scout car will come down either Monday or Tuesday of next week, and the booklets will be issued as soon thereafter as they can be gotten from the press.

Peachtree Road Improvement Will Begin Within Two Weeks

—Chairman Shelby Smith

Chairman Shelby Smith, of the public works committee of the county commission, gave out the assurance last night that the improvement of Peachtree road from Fifteenth street to Buckhead will be started within the next ten days.

He told The Constitution that the reason the work has dragged along is because of the press of other work in other sections of the city. He explained that the work of putting Marietta street in shape delayed the commission nearly three weeks, and as a consequence Peachtree was forced to suffer.

"The commission has not determined definitely on what date work will be started," Chairman Smith said. "But I can assure the people that it won't be delayed more than ten or fifteen days at the least. We are just as anxious as anyone to get the work started and rushed through to completion. The commission has a number of other important streets to fix up, and the sooner we are through with Peachtree road the sooner the other work will be started.

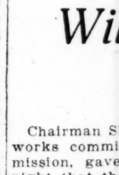

"I am in hopes that the work will be started earlier than ten days from now, but I don't see how it is going to be possible. We will have to get the rock and other material on the ground, and a bit of machinery will have to be moved."

Chairman Smith explained that the only possible way for the commission to get to Peachtree earlier than ten days would be by putting aside other work that has been started. He said that even that sort of thing would not be satisfactory, for the reason that the work would have to be hastened and the job would suffer.

"The commission is going to make a thorough job of the street," he said, "and when it is finished there will be no room for complaint. All that we ask is that the people have a little more patience. The county forces will be able to move from some of the other streets within the next three or four days, and then we can get started."

ERUPTION ALL OVER FOOT AND LEG

Up to Knee. Burned Severely. Itched So Badly Nearly Went Crazy. Scarcely Able to Walk. Used Cuticura Soap and Ointment and Was Cured.

1021 Payne St., Louisville, Ky.—"About four years ago I got some poison on my leg. My foot broke out in pimples and began to itch so badly I could not keep from scratching it bloody. The eruption spread all over my whole foot and leg up to the knee. My leg was as red as fire. The itching would keep me awake at night, and I scratched so hard the blood ran down over the whole leg. It would then burn severely. I could not stand a stocking or a shoe on that foot or leg it was swollen so badly. Every summer my leg would get so terribly sore and itched so badly I nearly went crazy. I had to keep it wrapped up all the time. I was scarcely able to walk and hopped around on one foot all summer.

"I tried all kinds of salves and medicines but nothing cured my leg until one day I saw Cuticura Soap and Ointment advertised and commenced to use them. After the first application I went to sleep and slept all night. I used two cakes of Cuticura Soap and two boxes of Cuticura Ointment on my self and was cured." (Signed) Mrs. Geo. Heilmann, Apr. 16, 1912.

Cuticura Soap (25c.) and Cuticura Ointment (50c.) are sold everywhere. A single set is often sufficient. Liberal sample of each mailed free, with 32-p. Skin Book. Address post-card "Cuticura, Dept. T, Boston."

PICKS QUIET SPOT AND CUTS THROAT FROM EAR TO EAR

Brunswick, Ga., June 25.—(Special.) Selecting a secluded spot in the outskirts of the city, and making preparations for committing the deed, Peter W. White, aged about 50, early this afternoon cut his throat from ear to ear.

White was proprietor of the Glynn restaurant and was at his place of business at 1 o'clock, leaving while lunch was being served. His body was found about two hours later by a passerby. The man left a note indicating that he intended ending his life, but the contents have not been made public by the coroner.

White came to Brunswick a few months ago from California and purchased the restaurant, one of the best known in the city, and while he has been enjoying a very good business, it is understood that financial difficulties were the cause of his act. He is survived only by a stepdaughter and an adopted daughter.

Overlooked the Vindication.

BATTLE OF BLOODY MARS RESULTS IN EVEN BREAK

By Ogie Grice.

Brunswick, Ga., June 25.—(Special.)—The second battle of "bloody Mars" resulted in a draw, the infantry under Major Hunter being unable to dislodge Major Seaman's dismounted troopers, while the latter were unable to repulse the attacking force. The conduct of the men was very pleasing, indeed, to the army officers as well as to the national guard officers here. Orders were quickly and minutely executed.

The Orange army—the calvarymen—marched directly from Camp Brown to the sea and then proceeded north about one mile, where entrenchments were thrown up and rifle pits dug. Shelter tents were thrown up in record time.

Earthworks Erected.

Small spades, picks and similar entrenching tools were furnished the men. At places earthworks five feet in height were erected and small canes and rushes were cut from the surrounding swamps and stuck in the exposed side so as to conceal the work.

The infantry force approached from the land side, which is very heavily wooded. The outpost, under command of Captain Rudisall, of Atlanta, held the large force of the enemy at bay long enough to permit the remainder of the Orange army to take position, and then beat a hasty retreat.

The Blue army advanced in good order very rapidly and took position along a railroad running parallel with the entrenchments. And the main battle occurred here. It was battalion against squadron. The battle line was about 2,000 feet in length.

After the battle, the Blue army of infantrymen marched around the rear of the Orange army's works, and examined the hastily constructed fortifications which were said to be constructed very skillfully.

Ladies Entertained.

The officers of the Third battalion and the Second squadron entertained the party of Atlanta ladies visiting Camp Brown at mess Wednesday. The band of the First Georgia furnished music. Pleasure parties were formed for tours during the afternoon and evening.

Mrs. C. W. Hatcher, of Atlanta, while out fishing, caught and towed to the shore with the help of those with her, a five-foot shark, which she shot and killed.

This is the second one to be killed here in the last few days. Mrs. Collum and son, Eden, who came to Camp Brown Saturday, have returned to Atlanta. The other ladies will not return until Saturday.

A large number of visitors went through the camp late Wednesday afternoon and large crowds are expected Thursday.

The camp is proving to be very attractive to the people near here.

CORNERSTONE FOR OLD WOMEN'S HOME TO BE LAID TODAY

The ceremony incident to the placing of the cornerstone of the Home for Old Women on Thursday afternoon will be conducted under the auspices of the grand lodge of Georgia, F. & A. M., under special orders from the grand master of Georgia, Hon. Robert L. Colding, of Savannah.

An "emergent communication" of the grand lodge has been called for the purpose and Mr. Colding, not being able to be present in person, has delegated his authority to Hon. Thomas H. Jeffries, of Atlanta, who himself is a past grand master of Georgia, and the cornerstone will be laid at the home, 61 West End avenue, at 5 o'clock on the afternoon of the 26th.

The ceremony is very beautiful and impressive, and besides the acting grand master, Mr. Jeffries, there will be a full complement of grand lodge officers, either actual or acting in places of absent officers. The laying of cornerstones by the Masons is always under the direct supervision of the grand lodge itself, and is not performed by the local or subordinate lodges, and this fact adds interest and dignity to the ceremony of Thursday afternoon. One or more short addresses will be delivered and the ladies who have the home in charge will serve punch on the lawn. They extend a cordial invitation to the public to attend on this occasion, which marks the eighth anniversary of the founding of the Home for Old Women.

G. C. & P. ROAD OPENING POSTPONED SIXTY DAYS

Brunswick, Ga., June 25.—The Georgia Coast and Piedmont railroad will not operate its first train into Brunswick on July 4, as was the original intention, but the operation of the Brunswick extension has been postponed for sixty days. This postponement has been caused by unavoidable delay in the construction of the large bridge across the Altamaha river, connecting Glynn and McIntosh counties.

T. F. Willson, general superintendent of the road, who was in the city yesterday, stated that the headquarters of the road would be removed to Brunswick upon the completion of the line. The company has already purchased freight and passenger terminals in the city, and work is now under way on a depot, freight station, etc.

4,000-ACRE TRACT TO BE COLONIZED

Albany, Ga., Jun e25.—(Special.)—Announcement is made today by the Albany chamber of commerce of the acquisition by the Central of Georgia railway through its agricultural department of 4,000 acres of farm land located 3 miles north of Albany for a settlement of northern farmers. The tract will be developed into small farms immediately and it is confidently expected by those who are behind the movement that a large acreage will be sold to prospective settlers during the early fall and winter. The Albany chamber of commerce is interested with the Central of Georgia in its project and it has pledged the hearty support of the business men of southwest Georgia in this movement.

The acquisition of this property for such a farm settlement marks a new epoch in the agricultural development of the south. The railroads built the west, the railroads are now building the far northwest and it has been an often repeated statement that the railroads should do for the south what the railroads have done for other sections. In the past, however, the efforts of the roads have been along the general development lines. It has remained for the Central of Georgia railway to point the way. The acquisition of the tract near Albany will no doubt mean that a broader work will be undertaken by all of the southern railroads in the future and the south will soon feel the results of the development.

The selection of the Albany tract by the Central means much to Georgia. The Central has nearly 2,000 miles of railroad in the south. Mr. Jackson was commissioned to secure the best tract of land along the system. The task was no small one. Nearly a year was consumed in personal investigation. It remained for Georgia to win over all other states through which the Central runs. The real meaning of the Central's decision is that the most fertile land to be had at the most reasonable price, with the best conditions to be found in the south, is in southwest Georgia, in the Albany district.

Big Test Farm Planned.

That part of the tract lying along the main line of the Central will be developed as a test farm, and through the experts of the Central will be made an ideal farm and will have much to do in showing the farmers of this section the advantages of diversification and will be an object lesson for the settlers.

Good roads will be built through the property, general improvements will be made and everything that it is possible to do to make the settlers feel welcome will be done.

The tract of land was acquired through D. L. Beatie, of the Beatie-Shaffer company, large land dealers of Albany, and much of the credit of securing the project for Georgia is due Mr. Beatie.

Jackson Talks of Project.

J. F. Jackson, agricultural agent of the Central of Georgia, said this morning in reference to the project:

"We can find farmers who want to come, but farms of 200 acres and less, such as they want, are scarce and scattered, and we must compete with other sections which can offer them a choice of a number of small farms in certain localities. Our section offers greater money-making possibilities than any other, but in order to satisy our inquirers who have told us just what they want, we have been forced to select the best available tract along our line for a settlement of northern farmers, arrange to have it subdivided, each small farm appraised and offered for sale at a reasonable price. As soon as the surveying and appraising is done these small farms will be offered to our present correspondents, and if necessary, to new inquirers reached through our advertising the coming season.

"The southeast is not a new country with all the land for sale, and securing new settlers for it is a different proposition. Advertising alone will not do it, for the individual homeseeker must have help to find what will suit him. The way it must be done is to first reach the class of settlers you want; second, find out just what will please them, and third, find and definitely offer them just such farms as they want. We have been able to do the first two things, and now that we have secured this tract near Albany, we can complete the system and get the settlers."

Albany Is Pleased.

Secretary E. B. Adams, of the Albany chamber of commerce, is enthusiastic over the project. Following the announcement that the Central had closed for the Albany tract, he said:

"The old repeated question, 'Why don't the railroads help us develop our country?' is answered. The Central has started along the right line. The concentration of the energies of the entire agricultural department of the Central on the Albany tract is promised, and it will mean a new era for Albany. Several hundred white farmers will own their own farms within a few miles of Albany. They will patronize Albany stores, will invest in Albany property and will increase our land values and, of course, will become imbued with the Albany spirit.

"It is a proposition the entire south is interested in. It is absolutely the biggest development project along the broadest lines, with the biggest chance for success for the railroad, for the settlers and for us that I have ever heard of in my experience in commercial work."

STONEWALL BOOSTERS HOLD ROUSING MEETING

Ask Legislature to Give County Seat to Town Getting Largest Vote in Section.

Stillmore, Ga., June 25.—(Special.)—The Stonewall county boosters' meeting, held here today, was a rousing success. Every section of the territory composing the proposed new county was represented and enthusiasm was higher than on any former occasion. Songs and yells were interspersed in the regular order of business, lending much to the enthusiasm of the occasion.

Metter was represented by eight of her most representative business and professional men, but refused to take any part in the meeting.

The mass meeting passed a resolution instructing those in Atlanta representing the interests of Stonewall county to leave the location of the county seat to a majority vote of the qualified voters living within the territory. Stonewall county contains every town in this section aspiring to become a county seat. The necessity for a new county in this section is considered great.

HOUSE GETS DOWN TO REAL BUSINESS

have placed unusual burdens upon our people and there is no business or interest in Georgia, whether farmer, merchant, banker, manufacturer, laborer or man of the professions, which has not felt its serious consequences.

"Therefore, to lay additional burdens upon our people at this time will be diastrous and unwise, and I sincerely trust that in providing for this deficit in the treasury you will find other means than that of increase in the various taxes of the state.

"We will be called upon to correct the present evils in our taxing system, a system which is now so antiquated, in many instances so inadequate and so unjust, and to correct these evils in such manner as will equalize the burdens of taxation and adjust the present inequities and inequalities of our law, offers to us the highest opportunity for the exercise of wise statesmanship and real service to the state."

Bolfeuillet Is Clerk.

It is hardly necessary to state that John T. Bolfeuillet, of Bibb county, who for many years has been the esteemed, handsome and efficient clerk of the house, was re-elected to this position, one might say, with overwhelming unanimity.

He was nominated by Minter Wimberly, of Bibb, who elaborated eloquently upon Mr. Boifeuillet's many manly qualities and his physical grace. From all parts of the house came seconds both of the clerk's nomination and of the complimentary remarks of Mr. Wimberly upon his virtues.

No other name was placed before the house for the clerkship.

But a paltry 170 votes were cast for Mr. Boifeuillet by reason of the fact that only legislators were allowed to vote. E. Y. McClatchey, of Marietta, was elected reading clerk and E Bismarck Moore was named recording clerk.

The festivities of the two principal elections being concluded, a message was sent to the senate informing that body that the house of representatives was now organized and ready for business, and that a committee of five to meet with a committee of three from the senate had been appointed to inform his excellency, the governor, that the general assembly was in order.

Details of Inauguration.

A committee of five was then appointed to meet with a committee of three from the senate to confer with Governor-elect John M. Slaton and arrange the details of his inauguration into office, which takes place next Saturday. This committee consists of Representatives Cheney, Holtzclaw, Aiken, Picquet and Fowler.

When the nominations for the speaker pro tem. were called for a neck-and-neck race—one of the closest and prettiest ever seen in the house—between E. H. McMichael, of Marion, and A. S. J. Stovall, of Elbert, was precipitated, Mr. McMichael coming in at the finish with a total of 98 votes against Mr. Stovall's 85. No other names were placed in nomination for the speakership pro tem. There were numerous seconds to both nominations.

From the start the winner of the race was in doubt until Mr. McMichael forged ahead on the homestretch. At the quarter the race stood 20-20, at the half it was McMichael 35, Stovall 31, and at the three-quarter McMichael had a bare 73 to Stovall's 71.

Mrs. Rosa Tolbert Reid was announced postmistress of the house. All elections after this announcement were without opposition and were as follows:

D. T. Paulk, of Ben Hill county, re-elected messenger.

W. T. Morris, of Talbot county, re-elected doorkeeper.

Rev. H. J. Ellis, of Fulton county, chaplain of the house.

Veterans Are Favored.

In assigning the legislators to their seats, a motion to allow confederate veterans to select their own seats carried unanimously, but when a motion was entertained to extend a similar courtesy to ministers it met with defeat.

This routine disposed of, the new house displayed the stuff it's made of by breaking a habit, rather than a precedent, of long years in the introduction of a large number of bills on the first day of the session.

This, however, was not without a good loud echo from the days of indolence. Several efforts to dispense with the filing of bills failed by lack of unanimous consent.

Another commendable feature of the first day's work of the house was the absence of freak bills, or bills of such a nature as would unnecessarily consume the time of the legislators, among those filed. Back of every single bill presented was a serious purpose of some sort.

A bill, introduced by Mr. Cole, of Bartow, calls for the providing of an inheritance tax.

Bills Introduced.

The following bills, special mention of some of which is made elsewhere in this issue of The Constitution, were filed:

By Mr. Cole, of Bartow, a bill to provide for an inheritance tax.

HUB TALLEY GIVEN LIMIT OF THE LAW BY JUDGE BROYLES

Hub Talley, Atlanta's most notorious police character, was given "the limit" by Recorder Broyles yesterday afternoon, when he was sentenced to twenty-nine days in the stockade and bound over to higher courts on bond of $5,000 for his assault upon George Blackstock several weeks ago.

The shooting of Blackstock occurred on Peters street more than a month ago. Upon the victim's recovery and release from hospital, Talley, his assaillant, was released on bond of $1,000. Tuesday afternoon the recorder suggested to Chief Beavers that Talley be re-arrested and summoned before police court.

Talley pleaded self-defense. The stockade sentence was imposed for discharging firearms in the city limits and for carrying concealed weapons. The charge under which he was bound over to higher courts was assault with intent to murder.

Professor Payne Resigns.

Dallas, Ga., June 25.—(Special.)—Professor Charles G. Payne, superintendent of the Dallas public schools, having declined to accept the position for another year, has accepted the superintendency of the Hazlehurst public schools for the next school year.

By Mr. Harris, of Washington, a bill to allow ordinaries fees for paying pensions.

By Mr. Clark, of Dougherty, a bill to allow county commissioners to provide for the support of the hospital at Albany.

As the reading of the governor's message was begun by the clerk, the whistles blew for dinner, whereupon the legislators declined to do further work, and the reading of the message, which was circulated among the representatives in pamplet form, was interrupted by a motion for adjournment, which was carried instantly.

At 11 o'clock this morning there will be a joint session of the house and the senate for the purpose of canvassing and approving the votes for governor and other state officials.

THE DISHONOR OF A STATE.

In his annual message to the legislature Governor Joseph M. Brown recites that the school teachers of Georgia have not as yet been paid a cent on their salaries for 1913, and proceeds as follows:

> Approximately one-third of all the teachers in the public schools of the state in 1912 were forced to wait from two to twelve months for their pay, or, in lieu of waiting, had to discount their claims at from 8 to 25 per cent. A great proportion of those who received prompt payments were paid with funds borrowed by local boards of education, who were required to pay from 6 to 12 per cent for the money.

It is for the legislators and people of Georgia to contemplate this brand of dishonor placed upon their state. This state is bursting with wealth. It safeguards its bonded and other forms of indebtedness with jealous care, yet it compels its school teachers to peddle the state's obligations at a heavy discount.

All Georgia is indicted. The country counties of Georgia suffer particularly. An overwhelming majority of the legislators are from the country counties. Their voice will cause or kill the remedy. Teachers in the city counties are situated more fortunately. The city teachers get their salaries on the tick of the clock. One-third of the state's teachers, all working on low salaries, wait from "two to twelve months."

And if they do not wait from two to twelve months the great and powerful state of Georgia forces them to shylock their pay. The men and women laboring under this oppression are equipping the generation that rules Georgia tomorrow. The state of Georgia is, therefore, not content with merely coercing its teachers into a pauper's existence. It also menaces efficiency in training for the coming generation.

The evil is an old one. Governor after governor has for years pleaded that it be remedied. The manhood and statesmanship of Governor-elect Slaton are sufficient to justify the prediction that he will do the same thing.

Under these urgings legislature after legislature has lacked either the initiative or the courage to apply relief. Let us hope that this one will rise to the full measure of its duty.

The case of the school teachers is only one symptom of the broken-down fiscal system of Georgia. Financial cramp is evident in each other of the state's functions. It will grow steadily worse until each taxpaying interest in Georgia is made to pay not what it pleases, but what it ought to pay.

The only tax assessor on the job now in Georgia outside of municipalities is a man's conscience. Georgians are as conscientious as any other people. But they are just as human. Any private business or corporation that tried to make ends meet not by rendering bills, but by accepting the customer's evidence of indebtedness, would go into bankruptcy. That's what Georgia has been trying to do. The two things that have saved us have been the state road and the abnormal increase in valuations. They haven't saved us so far that we're not piling up deficits each year, cheating the teachers and threatening the state's other institutions.

Many excellent principles are embodied in the bill of Frank Lipscomb, representative in the house from Clarke county, calling for tax equalization and summarized elsewhere. The bill does not bear merely the weight of one man's wisdom. A committee of the Athens Chamber of Commerce carefully investigated the situation, and this measure is the result. Mr. Lipscomb would create a state board of tax equalizers, as a supreme court on valuations. He would create adjunct boards in every county in the state. The powers with which he would clothe these boards is developed elsewhere. Before it adjourns the legislature must adopt some such system. It should be made immediately effectual, or at least by January 1, as Mr. Lipscomb has provided.

Harry Schlesinger, of Atlanta, well says in a card published elsewhere that the present system condemns Georgia to run on "faith, hope and charity," and that it encourages citizens "with feeble consciences to become parasites" on the others. Worse than that, it threatens each institution in Georgia with paralysis. The issue is up to the present legislature. The acid test is timidity or statesmanship.

WELL-CHOSEN OFFICIALS.

With disposition made of the election of officials and other preliminary organization the Georgia house and senate are now ready for the hard business that awaits them. Hon. J Randolph Anderson has been elected president of the senate, after a close contest with Judge John T. Allen, who withdrew at the last moment. The narrow margin in this contest indicates the strength and popularity of both of these Georgians. The designation of either one would have meant an administration of the senate for the next two years ably conducted from the standpoint of state policy and the state's welfare. The difficulty that members experienced in making a choice is shown by the fact that uncertainty prevailed up to the casting of ballots.

In the house the Hon. W. H. Burwell was elected speaker without opposition. He is a citizen of fine poise and ability and of large personal popularity. His legislative experience is large and equips him to make an ideal presiding officer.

It is a cause for gratification that both branches of the general assembly should be so well-officered for a session that promises to be of unusual importance in the state's history.

NOT CONFINED TO WOMEN.

Stressing one of the most important political features of the national women's movement a recent issue of the organ of the National Federation of Women's clubs says:

> The federation is doing a wonderful work in educating the great mass of its membership to a certain civic consciousness hitherto practically unknown in our sex; that clubs have done and are doing incalculable good in teaching women to work together, and to work disinterestedly; that all this must not be jeopardized or interfered with by the injection of any issue that would arouse antagonism or altercation.

It is not the members of the federation only who have been educated into a new civic consciousness. The activity of organized women throughout the United States has been and is today one of the most substantial agencies for creating and reviving a civic consciousness in men. Atlanta's municipal bond issue of several years ago, for instance, illustrates the point. The amount to be issued was $3,000,000, the largest bond valuation ever proposed in the history of the city. Here and there was great doubt as to the ability of friends of the issue to rally enough voters to insure its authorization. The majority of Atlantans were awake to the vital need of the improvements provided in the issue. But sufficient were indifferent to imperil its success.

It was here that the organized women of the city made their advent and did some of the most effectual work. There is no question that the wives, mothers, sisters and daughters of this city during the months of the campaign woke civic consciousness in Atlanta as it never before had been wakened. Their propaganda was constant, masterful. They took the broad general position that they were first sponsors of the home, that the sanitary and educational measures proposed in the issue born materially on the home and that their ratification was a matter of imminent public policy. The clean sweep of the bonds at the polls was undoubtedly helped to a controlling degree by the activity of Atlanta's organized women in appealing to and crystallizing the public consciousness.

Other triumphs of this same force are constantly visible. The great health movement and the movement for morality and child conservation sweeping the nation are referable to the civic consciousness roused by women. The beautification of cities and the practicalizing of education and our appreciating political standards are testimonials to the same influence. And the service of women in this important direction is merely on the threshold of its ultimate dimensions.

The Knee in the Right Place.

When Joel Chandler Harris was on the editorial staff of The Constitution there came to him, from Cedartown, Ga., this poem, entitled "Words of a Widow Lady:"

"It was a widow lady
That told the tale to me;
Her voice was low and painful,
One hand lay on her knee—
"'My husband was a drinkin' man—
O, a drinkin' man was he!'"
(So said that widow lady
Whose hand lay on her knee.)

"'I wonder if his angel-face
I evermore will see?
But I doubt it,' said that lady
Whose hand lay on her knee."

The comment of Mr. Harris on the above was this: "If that 'widow lady' hadn't had her hand upon her knee another poet would have been lost to the world."

Newton County Commends Teachers' Salary Fight

Covington, Ga., June 25.—(Special.)—Leaders of public opinion in Covington and Newton county hailed with approval the editorial in The Constitution of today calling for a thorough revision in the state's fiscal system. Especially enthusiastic was J. O. Martin, superintendent of the Newton county schools and one of the banner superintendents in Georgia. Superintendent Martin is noted for the high standard to which he has brought the schools in this county and the many progressive innovations for which he is responsible.

"We thoroughly commend The Constitution's editorial, 'A State Demands Action,'" he said today. "In no feature of the state's government is the breakdown of the fiscal system more obvious than with regard to its educational department. The method of underpaying teachers and imposing indefinite delay in paying their salaries may easily become a menace to the entire system. The Constitution is doing Georgia a service. I hope you will continue the campaign until the battle is won for business-like taxation in Georgia."

TONSILITIS

A Bulletin Issued by the State Board of Health.

While there are quite a large number of different varieties of tonsilitis only the three most common forms will be discussed here. These are: Acute tonsilitis, suppurative tonsilitis, commonly called quinsy, and chronic tonsilitis.

Acute tonsilitis, as the term implies, comes on suddenly and runs a more or less rapid course. Children and young adults are the ones most liable to the disease. It is seldom seen in infancy, and it is rare at 40 years of age. This form of the disease is contagious, and patients suffering from it should be isolated, and the same precautions taken to prevent its spread as are taken in other contagious diseases. Acute tonsilitis, frequently called follicular tonsilitis, as has been said, comes on rather suddenly. The patient may first complain of sore throat, with a feeling of swelling in the throat, or instead of this, the patient may first feel chilly or even have a decided chill, soon followed by aching of the limbs and back and violent headaches. These symptoms may be so severe that the patient may feel like he is going to have a very serious illness. The temperature rapidly rises and may reach 103 degrees to 105 degrees within a very few hours. The odor of the patient's breath is very foul, and unless the room is well ventilated the odor may fill the room. An examination of the throat shows the tonsils and neighboring tissues to be swollen and congested. The tonsils may be so greatly swollen as to touch each other, and they may be covered by a grayish substance that may resemble the membrane which is present in cases of diphtheria. The glands in the neck usually become swollen and painful and the neck muscles feel sore and stiff.

Suppurative Tonsilitis.

In suppurative tonsilitis, frequently spoken of as "quinsy," the local symptoms in the throat cause the greatest amount of distress, although the general symptoms named above may also be present. In quinsy pus (vulgarly called "corruption") forms in and around the tonsil. Usually only one tonsil is affected. It may become greatly swollen and seriously interfere with the patient's breathing and with his ability to swallow. The patient opens his mouth with considerable difficulty, as every movement of the jaw causes great pain. In quinsy the tonsil is seldom covered by a membrane as in the follicular form, or as in diphtheria. Instead, the tonsil is usually smooth and shining in appearance. In acute follicular tonsilitis, and in quinsy, a bacteriological examination should be made of the throat and the patient kept in isolation until it is determined whether or not the inflammation is caused by the germ of diphtheria. The state board of health laboratories will make these examinations, free of charge, upon request.

Chronic Tonsilitis.

In the chronic form of tonsilitis there is no danger of spreading the disease, but there is danger of the disease permanently injuring the health and the mind of the patient. In the chronic form the tonsils become enlarged; so much so, in fact, that the tonsil of one side may touch the tonsil of the other side. Children are the most frequent sufferers from this form of the malady. It is with this form of the disease that adenoids are found. They are, however, not invariably present.

With chronically diseased and enlarged tonsils there is usually nasal catarrh, and there is often earache and may be deafness. On account of the obstruction to nasal breathing the patient usually breathes with his mouth open. This gives the child a silly expression, and, besides, it is otherwise harmful. Air taken in through the mouth, instead of through the nose, is not properly sifted of dust and germs, nor is it properly heated before it enters the lungs. The nose fails to develop, since it is not being used, and the small nose adds to the already silly and stupid expression of the unfortunate child. The patient not only looks stupid but really is stupid. It fails to advance as rapidly as the other children of the same age, and so may be punished unjustly at home and at school. Besides being poorly developed mentally the child is undersized and the chest particularly becomes deformed. Often there is restlessness at night, and there may be a croupy cough and sometimes night screaming. Such unfortunate children are apt to be "sickly" and likely to catch any and all contagious diseases. They are especially liable to tuberculosis and diphtheria.

Treatment.

Children suffering from chronically diseased tonsils and adenoids, as a rule, improve rapidly, both mentally and physically, and to an absolutely surprising degree, after they are successfully operated upon.

In those cases, too, in which there are frequent attacks of acute tonsilitis, an operation by a physician who is skilled in this line of work is advisable. Frequently attacks of the acute form lead to the chronic form, and are attended by other dangers which cannot be described in this article.

"State of Georgia Runs On Faith, Hope and Charity."

Editor Constitution: I wish your editorial of this morning on "A State Demands Action" could be made a state document and sent to every citizen of Georgia.

It is entirely characteristic for The Constitution to anticipate and meet the needs of crises. But, in this instance, you have laid hold of a great big scandal that disgraces the whole state and that legislators have perennially been too cowardly to tackle.

The spectacle of a commonwealth as rich as Georgia forcing its teachers to wait indefinitely each year for their salaries is a travesty on justice and efficiency and statesmanship. We boast that we are going to bequeath a greater Georgia to greater Georgians. What chance have we of materializing that boast when we thus oppress the men and women who are equipping these Georgians?

The state of Georgia is running under a fiscal system that might be denominated one of faith, hope and charity. For these are about the only elements that keep life in the state's functions under the unbusinesslike policy of kiting deficits and borrowing from the future.

If railroads tried to operate by letting passengers contribute what they pleased for fares or shippers make their own freight rates, how long before they would go into the hands of a receiver? Yet that is the system under which Georgia has been operating. The citizen pays what taxes he pleases. The man with a feeble conscience becomes a parasite on the others. What inducement is there to be honest, when you know the other fellow may make capital out of your honesty and let you carry his load?

There's been enough delay in a matter that touches the credit and future of Georgia. If this legislature isn't courageous enough to find the remedy, prosperous Georgia will stand branded as a joke to the country.

HARRY L. SCHLESINGER.

Hope Is Like a Harebell.

GOV. BROWN BEGS PAYMENT OF SALARIES TO TEACHERS IN LAST ANNUAL MESSAGE

WHAT GEORGIA NEEDS, AS SEEN BY JOE BROWN

Pay due the teachers of Georgia's schools.
Increased appropriations for Tech and Normal schools.
Compulsory arbitration law, to protect public from strikes.
Upholding of militia laws, to quell mobs and disorders.
An inheritance tax.
Reform in manner of collecting near beer tax.
Double tracking of railroads all over the state.
Establishing office of commissioner of public highways.
Appointment of commission to consider farm credit system.
Cessation of rioting against negroes in several counties.
Decrease of railroad commission from five to three members.
Amendment of tax laws to work toward equalization of taxes.
Increase in number of bank examiners.
Better inspection and care of prisons.
Better system of vital statistics in county offices.
Reproduction of state seal, which is worn with use.
Change in registration law that closes books six months before election.

In a deeply studied message on the laws and reforms needed by Georgia, which is his last official communication before retiring from office, Governor Joseph M. Brown urges as one of the state's most crying needs the payment of the salaries of her school teachers.

Governor Brown's message, as read before the legislature on its opening session of 1913, presents in a peculiarly interesting light the result of a long public service and a searching study of conditions as existing in Georgia. Governor Brown is recognized as one of the keenest observers of men and institutions the state has produced.

But in the midst of his important message, in which he calls for revolution in registration laws, prison conditions, taxation methods and many other reforms, the governor takes the time of himself and the legislature to declare the pre-eminent importance of educational matters as molding the future of the state.

Not a Cent Paid This Year.

"While you are appropriating money and enacting laws for the development and progress of our state, hold ever in mind that the cultivation which will bring the greatest crops and choicest fruits is the cultivation of the minds of her youth," says the governor.

"In my annual message to your predecessors last year I stated that the condition of the treasury had permitted the payment of but 10 per cent of the amount due for expenses of the common schools. I regret to report that, the appropriations having increased in greater proportion than the state's income, it has been impossible to pay any amount as yet of the common school appropriation for this year.

"During the past three months we have made inquiry into the question of the payment of teachers, that is, we have sought to get the truth of conditions as they are. The result of the investigation proves that the evil has not been exaggerated by those who have decried it.

"Briefly, we found that approximately one-third of all the teachers in the public schools of the state in 1912 were forced to wait from two to twelve months for their pay, or, in lieu of waiting, had to discount their claims at from 8 to 25 per cent. A great proportion of those who received prompt payments were paid with funds borrowed by local boards of education. Advances thus made amounted to approximately $2,000,000 and cost at least $75,000 in interest or discount.

"Thus, it is clear that the waste in money due to delayed remittances from the state is great, and there must be an equal loss in efficiency resulting from the indifference fostered by the faulty and difficult method of financing the schools.

"With $1,000,000 more revenue available during the spring and summer months the state would be able to make prompt monthly remittances to the school system and thus would practically overcome the difficulties now labored under and growing worse.

"Therefore, I urge upon you the necessity for taking such steps as will enable the executive office to make prompt monthly payments as due on the appropriation to the public schools."

Besides the teachers' salaries, Governor Brown urges other steps to increase the efficiency of the schools and colleges, calling especial attention to the splendid work now being done by the State university at Athens.

Tech Needs $10,000 More.

He urges that $10,000 annually be appropriated in increase of the Tech's present maintenance fund to take care of the growth of the institution. He also recommends the addition of $7,500 each to the annual maintenance funds of the Georgia Normal school and the Georgia Normal and Industrial school.

Among the reforms which the governor declares are important is the proposed change in the registration law, which at present requires that the voters must register six months before the election or they are disfranchised.

"Under the present law upwards of 20,000 white voters in Fulton county alone are deprived of the right to vote by the operation of the law in question," says the governor; "and the total number of disfranchised throughout the state exceeds 75,000. The continuance of the law, as framed, on the statute book will bring reproach upon the state."

A "commissioner of public highways" is recommended, who would have general supervision of the work on the state roads, and, in the belief of the governor, especial stress should be laid on roads connecting the county seats, which form the main highways of the state.

Showing by figures that railroad building in Georgia has not kept pace with the development of other general properties, the governor urges that the work be stimulated, and that double tracking of railroads be pushed.

Farm Credit System.

To secure a plan for an adequate farm credit system, the governor recommends the appointment of a joint committee from the house and senate, to which shall be added about three or five other citizens of Georgia for the investigation of this vital question.

More complete inspection of the state banks is a grave necessity, he declares, as the two bank examiners are not enough to do the work required by law, and, therefore, the public has not sufficient assurance that the state banks are in sound condition. He, therefore, recommends that the number of bank examiners be increased.

Vital Statistics.

Vital statistics are declared by the governor to be so incomplete as to really furnish no reliable information.

"I, therefore, recommend," he says, "the enactment of laws requiring physicians to report all births and deaths coming under their purview. The birth statistics, of course, should show sex and race. The death statistics should show the disease or complaint of which each person died. If these statistics were kept fully and definitely we could, within a few years, ascertain what diseases were most prevalent in the various counties of the state, and in that way could be guided in taking steps toward alleviating the trouble to some extent.

Convicts' Pay Not Favored.

Calling attention to the need of better conditions in prisons, Governor Brown suggests that the prison commission be given authority and directed to inspect jails. He also mentions the need of having the women's quarters in jails inspected at intervals by women.

"A point has been raised in the public press and in some other circles," he continues, "that the state ought to allow moderate wages to convicts in the penitentiary, such wages to be paid to the families of these convicts whose protector and provider the state holds in confinement. I scarcely think that we are ready to take such a step. But in the event it be seriously considered, I respectfully suggest that, inasmuch as the convict is immured because of his taking the life of another, or of some damage done to others, if wages be allowed by the state they should be paid mostly, if not entirely, to the family whom the convict has deprived of its protector and supporter."

Governor Brown makes severe condemnation of the lawless mobs in Forsyth, Dawson, Cobb and other counties which have threatened all negroes of the sections because of individual offenses.

"The state cannot allow even a just resentment against lawless individuals to take the shape of wholesale intimidation of labor necessary for the conduct of farms and industrial enterprises," says the governor. "There is no reason why farms should lose their productive power and why the white women of this state should be driven to the cook stoves and washpots simply because certain people blindly strike down all of one class in retaliation for the nefarious deeds of individuals in that class." He proposes setting very heavy penalties for dynamiting or burning residences or threatening people or driving them from their homes.

Curtail Railroad Commission.

The railroad commission is declared by Governor Brown to be too large for the small amount of work which it does, and he advocates its reduction in size and economizing in its work by dispensing with its special attorney.

"Unnecessary offices which levy additional taxes upon the people should be abolished," says Governor Brown. "It is against public policy to maintain sinecures. I, therefore, respectfully recommend to your honorable bodies the reduction of the membership of the railroad commission from five members to three."

Governor Brown also emphasizes the need for revision of the state's system of tax assessments.

"All who have studied the question agree that if property now escaping taxation, and other property bearing less than its equitable burden, were required to contribute their just part to the support of the state government our revenues would be augmented to the extent of the deficit, which is now of serious consequence. I recommend that you amend the tax laws so as to provide a method of assessment for, and equalization of, taxes more just than now prevails.

Criticises Labor Unions.

Taking up the question of compulsory arbitration, the governor bitterly scores the labor unions as an "agency for anarchy," and compares them to gigantic trusts that strike their severest blows, he says, not at the rich people, but at the poor, for whose protection they were supposed to be organized. His words speak boldly forth his mind in such bitter arraignment as the following:

"There is no escape from the conclusion that these employees of the street car company in Augusta and of the Georgia railroad put themselves in a state of open rebellion to the laws of Georgia. They ignored the cardinal tenet of republican government, viz: 'There shall be equal rights to all, special privileges to none,' and arrogated to themselves the exercise of special privileges for settling their quarrels with their respective managements at the expense and serious inconvenience of the public, and in a manner which embodied defiance of the law which requires all dwellers in the state having differences which they cannot peaceably adjust to submit them to the state's courts.

"Again, their acts in leaving the service of the employing companies, and in virtually encouraging the formation of mobs to intimidate and personally assault those citizens whom these common carriers induced to take the places they had vacated, that the carriers might obey the law which created them, was logically a claim which can be expressed in these words: 'This is your property, but it is my job on it. I and my partners, the union, will defend our mutual rights to exclusive ownership of the positions which we hold on your property. We will determine for you whom you shall hire and whom you shall not hire, and what wages you shall pay. On your property chartered to serve the public we are supreme over you, supreme over the public, supreme over the law. The union label carries more authority than does your great seal of state.'"

The governor declared that it is manifestly the duty of the state to assert itself and demonstrate that no person or group of persons can, with impunity, disregard the laws of the commonwealth.

"It is needless to say that the state would not permit the management to shut down the operation of a street car line or a railroad," says the governor. "It is manifest, therefore, that the acts of the employees in preventing such operation is equally indefensible, and that they should be just as inflexibly held accountable to the laws of the state. No man, no combination of men, is greater than the state and her laws."

The governor's views on the labor question were declared with similar emphasis just at the time of the Georgia railroad strike last winter, and his incorporation of his views in his message to the legislature was not unexpected.

He requests the enacting of such laws at the present sessions to guarantee that "the masses of the people shall not again suffer from the acts of any who, for their own selfish interest, would impede commerce, travel or other public need or convenience." He also asks a law authorizing the governor to suspend a sheriff whenever he finds it proven that the sheriff has wilfully failed to do his duty in protecting the people of his county against acts of lawbreakers, and to appoint a sheriff to serve until after a new sheriff is chosen by the people at the next regular election.

The closing section of the message constitutes an appeal for support for the state militia laws, and the upholding of the governor in his command of the troops at times of mobs or other disorders.

"Do not make it the governor's duty to enforce a law and then condemn him for doing it," he says, in speaking of the attitude toward the governor's ordering out the troops. "Do not command a militiaman, a sheriff or other agent of the state to imperil his life and possibly lose it, to protect your lives and property, and uphold the dignity of your constitution, and then fire into his back from the statehouse whence his orders came. Do not enact laws which you intend shall not be enforced, or which you would allow to be tampered with. There is no middle ground between law and anarchy."

GRAND JURY WILL PROBE LYNCHING AT AMERICUS

Judge Littlejohn to Summon Special Session of Sumter Superior Court.

Americus, Ga., June 25.—(Special.)—The shocking tragedy enacted here last Saturday night, the lynching and burning of the negro William Redding, will undergo judicial investigation in an effort to punish those guilty of the crime. Judge Z. A. Littlejohn gave out the statement tonight that he would convene Sumter superior court in special session next Monday and present the facts as they exist to the grand jury.

This action upon the part of Judge Littlejohn is warmly approved, as citizens of Sumter county desire that no effort be spared to ferret out the lynchers and administer punishment commensurate with the offense committed. Judge Littlejohn has been away from Americus quite recently, presiding at Muscogee court, hence the delay in taking action in the premises.

The condition of Police Chief Barrow this evening is practically unchanged, and is regarded as critical in the extreme. He has been free from fever throughout the afternoon with temperature normal. Fear that he will not recover is still entertained, although his condition seems no worse than on yesterday, which was the crisis.

MRS. EDW. JONES HURT WHEN MOTORS COLLIDE

Americus, Ga., June 25.—(Special.)—A head-on collision this morning between the automobiles of Chester Jones, of Macon, and Carroll J. Clarke, president of the Americus board of trade, resulted in the demolishing of the Clarke car, and considerable injury to the Macon car. In the Macon party were Mr. and Mrs. Edward Jones, Chester Jones, Miss Virginia Jones and Mrs. George McArthur, en route to Americus. Mr. Clarke was going to Macon.

The collision occurred on the Americus-Andersonville highway at a sharp curve. Mrs. Jones sustained slight bruises as did Mr. Clarke. Cars sent from Americus brought all parties here.

STATE AND COUNTY BOARDS FOR EQUALIZATION OF TAXES PROPOSED BY LIPSCOMB BILL

FRANK A. LIPSCOMB,
Member of the legislature from Clarke county, who fathers what will perhaps be the most important tax reform measure of the session, and the one which will probably be taken as the basis of legislative action.

Hon. Frank A. Lipscomb, of Athens, member of the house of representatives from Clarke county, having devoted the past six months to a careful and scientific study of tax reform in Georgia, introduced Wednesday in the house of representatives the measure which will probably be taken as the basis of action by the house.

Probably many other bills will be introduced on the same subject, but the general impression around the house is that this bill, which follows closely the suggestion of a strong committee of the Athens chamber of commerce, will be taken as the basis of the deliberations of the ways and means committee on the subject of tax reform.

The Athens chamber of commerce, through a committee of some of the strongest citizens of that enterprising city, took this matter up some months ago, and after a careful study an extensive report was finally adopted, this report having been prepared by Dr. J. H. T. McPherson, Judge A. J. Cobb and E. C. Branson. It was submitted to the full committee of ten, of which C. D. Flanigan is chairman. The committee studied every phase of state taxation, not only in Georgia, but in states throughout the union, and the bill of Mr. Lipscomb, drafted by Judge Andrew J. Cobb, one of the most eminent lawyers in Georgia, is the result.

Mr. Lipscomb is one of the most prominent business men of Athens, and tax reform will be the chief object that will interest him during the session.

Condition of Bill.

The bill creates a state board of tax equalizers and makes it one of the departments of government at the state capitol.

The bill provides:

"Said state board shall consist of three members, who shall be appointed by the governor by and with the advice and consent of the senate, and shall hold their office for and during a term of six years and until their successors are appointed and qualified, provided that the first members of the board appointed under the provision of this act shall be appointed respectively, one for a term of two years, one for a term of four years and one for a term of six years, to hold until their successors are appointed and qualified and thereafter the members shall be appointed for a term of six years except where appointments are made to fill an existing vacancy. If at any time there should be a vacancy in said board, caused by death, resignation, expiration of term or office or otherwise, such vacancy shall be filled by the governor by an appointment to hold for the remainder of the unexpired term."

Section 2 provides that the board shall be provided at public expense with an office in the state capitol, which shall be kept open by the chairman, who shall be elected by the members of the board. The chairman is to receive $2,500 and the other two members $2,000 each.

Three on Each County Board.

Section 3 enacts that there shall be established in each of the several counties of this state a board of county tax equalizers. Said county board shall consist of three members to be appointed by the judge of the superior court of the circuit which embraces the county, upon the recommendation of the ordinary of the county, provided that in those counties where the county affairs are under the jurisdiction and control of a board of county commissioners the appointment shall be made upon the recommendation of the board of county commissioners or a majority thereof.

"The members of said county board shall be appointed for a term of six years and to hold until their successors are appointed and qualified, provided that the first appointment under this act shall be of one member for two years, one member for four years and one member for six years, and thereafter the members shall be appointed for a term of six years except in cases of an appointment to fill an existing vacancy. If there should be a vacancy in said county board at any time, caused by death, resignation, expiration of term of office, or otherwise, the vacancy shall be filled for the remainder of the unexpired term in the same manner as herein provided for the appointment of the members of the said county board. The members of said county board shall be paid as compensation for their services such an amount as may be fixed from time to time by the ordinary or board of county commissioners of the county as the affairs of the county may be under the jurisdiction of the one or the other, provided the compensation to be paid said members shall not be less than two ($2) dollars per day for the time they are in actual discharge of the duties required of them, and shall not be more than five ($5) dollars per day.

"Said members of the county board shall take an oath before some officer authorized by law to administer an oath to perform faithfully and impartially the duties imposed upon them by this act, and also the oath required of all civil officers. The members of said county board shall be freeholders of the county and shall for the term for which they are appointed and for two years thereafter be ineligible to hold any state, county or municipal office, but they may be appointed to succeed themselves as members of the county board."

Governor to Aid State Board.

The bill then stipulates that the state board shall receive its commission from the governor, and shall also submit its report to the general assembly through the governor. The county boards, however, shall receive their commissions from the clerk or ordinary of the board of county commissioners.

It is provided in section six that the boards shall be chosen as soon as possible and that the state board shall commence its duties on January 1, 1914. Section seven says that each county board shall elect a chairman, for a period of not less than two years. The bill then continues as follows:

"Sec. 8. Be it further enacted by the authority aforesaid, that as soon as practicable after the first day of January, 1914, and as soon as is practicable after the first day of January in each year thereafter, said county board shall meet, and it shall be the duty of the ordinary of the county to lay before them the copy of the tax digest of the county for the preceding year which is on file in his office, provided if the tax receiver of the county has in his office or his possession a copy of such digest, then the copy in the office of the tax receiver may be used. The county board shall go through said tax digest and assess for taxation for the current year the value of all the real estate returned upon such digest and make a note on the digest opposite the name of each taxpayer the amount at which such real estate shall be returned for taxation.

Method of Making Appeals.

"When such assessments thus made have been noted on the digest, such digest shall be delivered to the tax receiver of the county and it shall be the duty of the tax receiver to place upon the digest of the current year the valuation of the property thus fixed by the county board, provided that if any taxpayer shall object to the assessment thus made he may, within five days after he has made his returns to the tax receiver, enter in writing an appeal to the county board and shall set forth the grounds of appeal, and when such appeal has been filed with the chairman of the county board, said county board fix a time for hearing and shall proceed in a summary way to hear such evidence as may be offered by the taxpayer or the tax receiver. After hearing the evidence the county board shall fix and determine the valuation to be made upon said property of said taxpayer. If said taxpayer is dissatisfied with the decision of the county board he may, within five days after such decision, enter, in writing, an appeal to the state board, setting forth his grounds of appeal, and when such appeal has been filed with the secretary of the state board the state board shall then proceed to fix a time for hearing, and shall proceed with a hearing in a summary way and fix the valuation to be placed on the property, and on this hearing evidence may be heard by affidavit, or by personal attendance of witnesses, provided that neither taxpayer nor state nor county shall ever be taxed with cost for the attendance of witnesses on said hearing. The decision of the state board shall be final.

Investigate Short Returns.

"Section 9 enacts that said county board shall also examine the returns of personal property of each tax payer on the digest of the preceding year, and if in the opinion of said county board any tax payer has failed to return his personal property at a true valuation, or has omitted from his returns personal property that should be returned, said county board shall cause a written notice to be served upon said tax payer to appear before it at such time and place as may be fixed in the notice, and shall proceed to examine said tax payer under oath, and also to examine such witnesses as the board may see fit to summons. After the hearing the county board shall fix the amount of the return to be made by the tax payer on his personal property for the current year, and the tax receiver shall enter the same on the digest for the current year. If any tax payer is dissatisfied with the decision of the county board he may appeal to the state board in the same manner as is provided for appeals in case of real estate, and such appeals shall be heard and disposed of in like manner.

"It is further enacted that it is the purpose and intent of this act to provide for valuation of all property assessed for taxation at a reasonable and fair market value and to so equalize the valuation of property in the several counties that each tax payer will pay as near as may be only his proportionate share of taxes."

To Investigate Short Returns.

The duties of the state board include the examination of the tax digests of the several counties of the state, with a view to bringing about a uniform and equitable valuation for taxation of all property of similar nature that is subject to taxation. If it should escertain that real estate in any county is returned at a valuation, which, in the opinion of the state board, is less than what is fair and equitable, the state board shall notify the county board and endeavor to fix a better basis of returns.

The state board is also authorized by the bill to select a secretary at a salary of $2,000, to perform the office duties of the board. The duties of the state board are further outlined as follows:

"It is further proposed by the bill that the state board shall have a supervisory relation over the county boards, and it shall be the duty of the comptroller general to lay before said state board the tax digests from the several counties of this state, as said board may desire at any time in the performance of its duties, and it shall be the duty of said state board to compare the tax digests of the different counties in the state for the purpose of ascertaining whether there is a uniform valuation of the property of the state for the purpose of taxation, and to ascertain whether the valuation shown in said digests are reasonably uniform as compared with the actual market value of the property of said county for the year in which said returns are made. Said board shall have authority, after making a full and careful comparison of tax valuations of the several counties to add to the tax valuation of any class of property of any county or deduct therefrom such a per centum thereof as may appear to be just and right between the counties, such additions or deductions by said board to apply uniformly to all property returned in the digest under consideration. The county board shall be informed as to the deductions or additions provided by the state board, and shall follow the same as far as is practicable in their respective counties."

Herrington Must Explain.

Washington, June 25.—Clayton Herrington, special agent of the department of justice at San Francisco, who sent President Wilson a telegram Sunday night appealing for the removal from office of Attorney General McReynolds—his official superior—because of the circumstances of the resignation of United States Attorney McNab, was suspended without pay tonight by A. Bruce Bielaski, chief of the bureau of investigation of the department of justice.

This action, it is said, is to give Herrington an opportunity to explain his telegram. If the explanation is not satisfactory, officials declare that the special agent will be summarily dealt with.

Herrington is a former judge and is in charge of the federal government's bureau of investigation at San Francisco. He helped District Attorney McNab to prepare the Diggs-Caminetti white slave cases, the postponement of the trial of which resulted in McNab's resignation and his sensational charges against the attorney general.

Heney May Prosecute.

President Wilson today recommended to Attorney General McReynolds the names of Francis J. Heney, Matt J. Sullivan, Thomas Hayden and others for appointment as special prosecutors in the Caminetti-Diggs white slave cases and the Western Fuel company coal customs cases. No final selections were made.

The whole subject was deferred on account of the congested engagement list of the president, practically every moment of his time from early morning until late tonight being occupied with conferences on currency and departmental matters. It is expected that the attorney general and the president will confer early tomorrow, however, and settle finally on two and possibly three men to conduct the prosecution of the cases.

No further comment was forthcoming from the white house or the department of justice on the statements of United States District Attorney John L. McNab, whose resignation was accepted yesterday by the president.

SENATE PRESIDENT AND THE SPEAKER

ing him with insincerity in the matter, and he is believed to be an ardent friend of real tax revision, but it is also true that, so overwhelming is the sentiment that is forming for tax reform, that its enemies will hardly dare to oppose it openly, but will more likely cover their opposition under the guise of a plea for delay and mature consideration.

Certain it is, on the other hand, that a large number of representatives who were interviewed on the subject are in hearty accord with the editorial in Wednesday's Constitution, and will be satisfied with nothing less than a competent and searching measure of reform at this session of the general assembly.

Constitution Editorial Indorsed.

When asked what he thought of the matter, Representative Garlington, of Richmond, who is a member of the house for his third successive term, said:

"I agree with The Constitution that tax revision is the most important issue before the legislature this year. I believe further that it should come at this session, and I shall oppose to the utmost any proposition to delay action on the matter. I am also against cutting down appropriations. Our state institutions need every cent we are giving them and more. What we want to do is to raise sufficient revenue with which to meet appropriations, not to cut them down."

Representative Barry Wright, of Floyd, was of the same opinion.

"I indorse every word that was said in this morning's Constitution, and you can count on me to give my support to whatever measure seems best calculated to carry out the reforms outlined in that editorial."

The Imperative Issue.

Representative R. N. Hardeman, of Jefferson, who ties with one other representative the honor of being the oldest in length of service in the house, being now in his seventh consecutive term, said:

"I have not given the question sufficient study to say what measure of tax reform will best meet the exigencies of our state's finances, but I am most heartily in accord with the principle. So urgent do I consider it, that I regard it as the one imperative issue of our present session. A solution must be found by this legislature, if our state is to maintain its rank as a leader among southern commonwealths. A larger revenue must be provided so that the teachers may be paid promptly and our state institutions adequately maintained and developed. I am glad that The Constitution is making a fight along this line, and I believe that, if the press of the state will keep plugging at it something worth while will be accomplished."

New Members Enthusiastic.

The most enthusiastic support for action at an early date on tax revision was found among the new members of the legislature.

Representative L. J. Cooper, of Ware, who was a delegate to the last democratic convention in Baltimore, said:

"I give my indorsement to every word in The Constitution's editorial of this morning. I want our teachers promptly paid, even if we have to raise the ta xrate for a year or two to do it. I want our state institutions built up. I want our disgraceful and utterly unfair system of collecting taxes by voluntary contribution done away with. I want action this year. You can count on me in the fight for the reforms which The Constitution is advocating."

Shelby Myrick, one of the new representatives from Chatham, said:

"I am in favor of tax reform, real tax reform, tax reform this year. I can see no excuse for putting it off for another year and having all of this old hue and cry over again about our unpaid teachers and stinted state institutions. We ought to have action as soon as we can get up a bill that meets the requirements. That can and ought to be done at this session."

What Wright Says.

But the most valuable indorsement of all for the reforms advocated in yesterday's Constitution came from Comptroller General William A. Wright. He said:

"That was a strong editorial that you had this morning, and it is right along the line that I have been advocating for years. The only alternative to cutting down appropriations is to provide for the raising of more revenue. A thorough revision of our revenue system is needed. This is a subject of vital importance to all classes of citizens, and should receive attention at this session of the general assembly.

"The defective and disjointed machinery for assessing property for taxation permits much of the valuable property of the state to escape taxation altogether, and a very much larger proportion to evade its just and equitable part. The evils of our system obtain equally in the assessment of property of individuals as well as corporations, and as well in the several counties of the state. All taxation should be uniform, and a system of assessing property should be provided to accomplish as far as possible absolute uniformity. Just in so far as this is not obtainable, the system is defective and necessarily lays the burdens of government unequally and unjustly.

"I am very much in hope that some measure of reform to meet this situation may be brought out this year, and I want it understood that the records of my office are always open, and I shall ever be ready to offer any advice in my power to legislators who are seeking light on this subject."

Inasmuch as Comptroller General Wright has given all of his time for more than thirty years to the study of this subject, it can hardly be gainsaid that he would be able to give the legislature as competent advice on the question, and that without a penny of extra expense to the state, as any committee or commission that might be selected to meet in Atlanta at intervals and give a small part of their time to it for a year.

Another Revision Bill.

Another measure of tax revision about which no mention has yet been made, which will be introduced at an early date, is a bill of Representative T. G. Dorough, of Franklin, which provides for a state tax commission constituted on similar lines to the railroad commission. It provides for three tax commissioners to be appointed at first by the governor and subsequently elected by the people for a term of six years, who shall see that just and fair tax returns are made and that assessments are equalized between the counties.

A., B. & A. Wins Bid To Take Fifth Regiment To Camp at St. Simons

With the opening of bids for transportation of the Fifth regiment to St. Simons island for its annual camp, and the awarding of the contract to the Atlanta, Birmingham and Atlantic railroad, the plans are fast being completed for the departure of the regiment on the 8th of July.

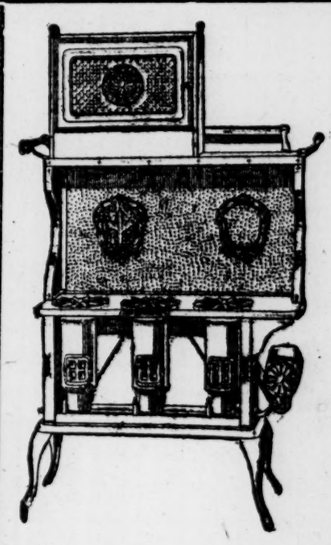

Six hundred strong, the Atlanta boys will journey to the seaside resort for ten days of absolute rest from business, with the joys of recreation and camp life to freshen the blood in their veins.

Colonel E. E. Pomeroy, in command of the regiment, will personally supervise the trip to St. Simons. There will be twelve companies, the band, hospital corps and headquarters, leaving in two sections, one at 8 o'clock and the other at 8:30 on the evening of the 8th.

12 MONTHS' SENTENCE IS GIVEN DONEHOO

Judge L. S. Roan, in the criminal division of superior court, yesterday sentenced Oscar A. Donehoo to twelve months, following his conviction on a charge of embezzlement.

Donehoo filed a motion for a new trial, but the judge gave him to understand that if he returned to his sister-in-law, Mrs. Alice Donehoo, the $200 charged against him, that the sentence would be more lenient. Donehoo must do this before the motion is heard, according to Judge Roan's decision.

WHY SWELTER? KEEP COOL

You can do so these hot days by using an Oil Stove for your cooking. Especially acceptable are they during the canning season. Is it too hot in the kitchen? That's all right; just move the stove to the back porch. Not comfortable there? Then just try the butler's pantry and they won't heat up the rest of the house, nor you, either.

Come in and let us give you a lesson on keeping cool while cooking in the summer time. We carry in stock one, two and three-burner stoves, with or without cabinets; and you can buy these with or without ovens.

Our King Bee line has many points of superiority over any other oil stove on the market.

SOCIETY

COLE-KEESE WEDDING BEAUTIFUL SOCIAL EVENT

One of the prettiest of the June weddings was that of Miss Harriet Cole and Mr. Rogers Keese, which took place last night at the home of the bride's mother, Mrs. H. D. Cole.

The bridal party was grouped for the ceremony in the drawing room, the bridal pair standing under a shell canopy of smilax, showered with pink roses and lilies of the valley, with tiny rose-shaded lights shining through the green. At the back of the canopy was a tall white vase of Easter lilies, fair and beautiful against the wall of palms which was the main background, and at each side were tall brass candelabra burning white candles.

The mural decoration was of smilax, and on the mantel were massed ferns, Easter lilies and pink roses.

An orchestra played the wedding music, and the bride entered with her brother, James Howard Cole. Mr. Roy Dorsey was best man, and Miss Sophie Daves and Atwood Cole were ribbon bearers.

Rev. Mr. Yarborough, who has officiated at weddings in the bride's family for three generations, was the minister officiating.

The bride's flower-like beauty was enhanced by the filmy lace wedding gown, and her veil was hung from a becoming lace cap, adjusted with orange blossoms. Her flowers were orchids and lilies of the valley.

The ceremony was witnessed by the family party and a few friends, and afterwards a reception was held.

The house had artistic decoration in palms, variegated foliage plants, pink roses and lilies. In the dining room the table centerpiece was a mound of pink roses and valley lilies, out of which rose a silver candelabra with pink shades, and all the color details were pink and white.

The porch was inviting with palms and hanging baskets of fern and flowers, and punch was served there from a bowl imbedded in a mound of pink roses.

Mr. and Mrs. Keese left after the reception for a wedding trip.

Their marriage, while it was a quiet one, held its wide social interest, since both have been popular members of the younger set. The bride, a debutante of last year, was one of the prettiest and most charming young women in the social life, and Mr. Keese, who is in the automobile business, has many friends in business and the social world to congratulate him.

The Dansant.

A happy occasion yesterday at the Driving club was the "dancing tea" given Mr. and Mrs. Thornton Marye, when their guests were a few of their married friends.

The hours were from 5:30 to 7:30 o'clock, and dancing was interrupted for refreshments served from the end of the ballroom porch, which was made into a palmroom, cool and picturesque. The buffet table, laden with dainties appropriate to hot weather, was decorated with red and yellow zinias.

Mrs. Marye wore a smart white gown of crepe and lace, with blue girdle, and her blue and white hat was trimmed with pink roses.

Trennor-Pierson.

A beautiful home wedding yesterday was that of Miss Loretta Pearl Trennor and Mr. Clifford Tremont Pierson, which took place at the residence of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. P. Anderson, in West End.

Rev. John D. Wing officiated, and there were no attendants. The wedding company included only the family party and the intimate girl friends of the bride.

Mr. Roy Anderson, the bride's cousin, played the wedding march, and Mrs. Wofford Edwards sang an appropriate selection just before the ceremony.

The bride was very charming in white crepe de chine, elaborate with Irish lace and chiffon roses. Her veil was hung from a lace cap adjusted with orange blossoms, and her bouquet was of bride roses.

Mrs. Anderson was gowned in shell pink chiffon, embroidered.

The house had effective decorations throughout in palms, smilax and cut flowers, a combination of white and green obtaining in the reception rooms, and pink sweet peas and roses were the basis for a pretty decorative scheme in the dining room.

Miss Corinne Anderson and Miss Ethel Milliken served punch, and assisting in entertaining were Mrs. Frank Barford, Mrs. Robert Saxon, Miss Lewis and Mrs. W. W. Anderson.

Mr. and Mrs. Pierson went to the seashore for ten days, and returning, they will make their home on Queen street, in West End.

To Miss Francis.

Mrs. William H. Schroder was hostess yesterday at a pretty card party in honor of Miss Martha Francis, when sixteen young women were entertained.

The reception rooms had an effective decoration in nasturtiums and Shasta daisies with ferns, and in the dining room the tea table was picturesque in pink and white and silver. The centerpiece was a basket of sweet peas, the candle shades were pink, and candles and ices were pink and white.

The bridge prizes were a parasol and dainty lingerie in lace and ribbon.

Mrs. Schroder wore a becoming light blue crepe, with finish in black.

TRIBUTE IS PAID RETIRING MARSHAL ON 16-YEAR SERVICE

Hon. Walter H. Johnson, United States marshal, has received a letter from Attorney General McReynolds, accepting his resignation. In the attorney general's letter a well deserved compliment is paid to the retiring marshal in the following expressions:

"Permit me to express my high appreciation of the valuable service which you have rendered the government during the many years which you have served it."

It is expected that the change in the office will become effective almost any time after July 1, and Mr. Johnson is making his arrangements accordingly. He has filled the office of United States marshal for sixteen years, and during that time, notwithstanding political differences, he has won the confidence of the people of both city and state. The universal verdict of the state will be an indorsement of the handsome tribute paid him by the attorney general.

POUND-EDWARDS.

Athens, Ga., June 25.—(Special.)—A wedding of much interest here and over the state occurred this evening at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Jerre Pound, on the campus of the state normal school, when Miss Willie Greene Pound was married to Mr. William Russell Edwards, of Fort Valley, Rev. J. T. Wardlaw, of Cordele, performing the ceremony. In the living room were ferns and white roses, the mantles were banked with ferns and crystal vases of bride's roses were on mantel and cabinet and bookceses.

The bride entered the parlor with her father, by whom she was given away in marriage. They were met at the improvised flower altar by the groom and his best man, Mr. A. C. Riley, of Atlanta. Miss Pound had no attendants and the wedding party was a small one, the reception following being attended by a number of close friends.

ANDERSON HEADS GEORGIA SENATE

Judge Allen's Name Is Withdrawn at the Last Moment. Inheritance Tax Bill Introduced by Senator Miller.

After a heated campaign lasting many months, Senator J. Randolph Anderson, of the first district, was on Wednesday morning elected president of the Georgia state senate without opposition. At the last moment Judge John T. Allen, of Milledgeville, was withdrawn from the race by Senator W. W. Spinks, of the thirty-eighth district.

Senator Spinks was the first solon to claim the floor, and in a short speech telling of the good feeling and freedom from personalities in the campaign between Hon. Randolph Anderson and Judge John T. Allen, withdrew the name of Judge Allen from the race for president of the upper house in view of the fact that his candidate was unable to command but nineteen votes.

No Scars of Battle.

Senator W. W. Stark, of the thirty-third district, then placed the name of Randolph Anderson in nomination for the presidency and in short order Mr. Anderson was given a unanimous vote, and mounted the chair amidst great applause. In a short impromptu speech, President Anderson addressed his colleagues, stating that after a fierce state-wide fight for the presidency he was glad there remained no scars of battle or gaping wounds after the battle clouds had rolled over and the smoke had cleared away.

President Anderson said, in part: "The state must meet the growing demands of her children, and while the legislatures of the past four years have been accused of extravagance, you know and I know that no state educational institution has received an adequate pittance from the treasury for its proper maintenance."

He touched briefly and concisely upon tax revision and pointed out that the school teachers had not been paid a penny for their past six months' labor.

"The present legislature must meet the growing demands of the state and wipe away such disgraces as have been allowed to exist in the past."

Northen Is Elected.

Judge J. R. Pottle, of the court of appeals, swore the new senators in by groups of five, and following President Anderson's election, Charles S. Northen was nominated for clerk of the senate by Senator G. M. Huie, of the thirty-fifth, and elected to this position without opposition.

Senator J. L. Sweat, of the fifth, nominated Senator W. J. Bush, of the eighth, for president pro tem. of the senate, and Senator B. S. Miller, of the twenty-fourth, nominated Senator E. L Smith, of the ninth. Senator Smith was elected president pro tempore by a vote of 37 to 6. Those voting for Senator Bush were Senators DuBose, McGregor, Richardson, Smith, Sweat and Tyson.

Flynn Hargett, of Columbus, for many years messenger of the senate, was re-elected to this position without opposition. I. J. Stevens, of Coweta, defeated Julius H. Cook for doorkeeper of the senate by a vote of 41 to 2.

Upon the resolution of Senator Du Bose, of the Thirtieth, a committee consisting of Senators DuBose, Stark and Parrish was appointed by the president to select a chaplain for the present session of the senate. The Rev. J. W. G. Watkins, of College Park, was again selected without delay.

Inheritance Tax Bill.

Senator B. S. Miller, of the twenty-fourth district, introduced an inheritance tax bill in the senate on the opening day, copied after the law now in operation in Illinois. Representative Herman Swift, of Muscogee, will introduce the same bill in the house.

The bill has been carefully prepared from the Illinois and New York statutes by Senator Miller and Representative Swift and is expected by them to solve the question of the state's income.

The bill provides a graduated tax of from 1 to 6 per cent on estates valued from $10,000 to more than $1,000,000.

The following schedule set forth in the bill prescribes the percentages on the varying inheritances:

One per cent tax on estates valued from $10,000 to $50,000.

Two per cent tax on estates valued from $50,000 to $100,000.

Three per cent on estates from $100,000 to $250,000.

Four per cent on estates from $250,000 to $500,000.

Five per cent on estates from $500,000 to $1,000,000.

Six per cent on estates valued at more than $1,000,000.

Taxable property is set forth in the caption of the bill as "all personal and real property passing by the laws of inheritance or succession, by will, or by deed, grant or gift intended to take effect in possession or enjoyment after the death of grantor or donor."

Bills Introduced.

Senate bills introduced Wednesday:

By Senator Miller, of the Twenty-fourth—A bill to provide for an inheritance tax in Georgia

By Senator Pope, of the Forty-fourth—A bill exempting baled cotton and farm products grown in Georgia from taxation.

By Senator Tarver, of the Forty-third—A bill creating the new county of Tate, with Fairmont as county seat.

WOMAN SUFFRAGE BILL TO BE SIGNED BY DUNNE

Springfield, Ill., June 25.—Without going into the question of its constitutionality, Governor Dunne probably will sign the woman's suffrage bill tomorrow morning.

"I have received the attorney general's opinion," said the governor tonight, "and am now ready to meet the ladies."

In his opinion of the suffrage bill Attorney General Lucey declined to go into the question of the constitutionality of the measure, holding that it eventually would be determined by the supreme court. The attorney general holds that the bill is not objectionable as to form. He said he could not see why the supreme court might hold against it.

CRUSADE IS OPENED AGAINST CHAINGANGS

According to Marion M. Jackson, of the Men and Religion Forward Movement, every church and every penal reform institution in the state will be enlisted in the fifty-day war on chaingangs, which was inaugurated with the opening of the legislature yesterday.

A broadside of bulletins will be fired at the members of the general assembly from time to time, calling attention to the condition of our chaingangs and other penal institutions, until some measure of reform is enacted.

Half Not Told.

Mr. Jackson said Wednesday that he had not portrayed half the horrors of the chaingang system in the first bulletin.

"If a man goes into the chaingang with any manhood and goodness in his makeup," said Mr. Jackson, "he is pretty likely to be rid of these qualities by the time he has passed through his dark-age imprisonment. Boys and first offenders, many of whom are not really bad, but who have made a mistake, a slip, are chained to the hardened criminals, and by the time they are released they have received an effective schooling in all forms of vice and crime.

"One has only to go to the chaingangs in some of the counties to see boys in their 'teens chained next to some beast who has been guilty of the most vicious and heinous of crimes. Such an outrageous system, instead of acting as a reformatory, has exactly the opposite effect. The state is thus thwarting its own purposes.

Women Not Provided For.

"Neither has Georgia made any adequate provision for its women wrongdoers and its delinquent girls. The stockade is the only place that Fulton county has to send its female offenders, and no one will attempt to say that this is a proper place to imprison a girl or a woman.

"The Prison Association of Georgia, enlisting the support of the Men and Religion Forward Movement, proposes to change these conditions—at this session of the legislature if possible. I am confident that much will be done this year.

"We intend to have the chaingang abolished. We do not mean to take the men off the roads—work is good for them—but we shall fight to have those conditions wiped out which wreck the health, which destroy the moral fiber, which blunt the sensibilities and which make habitual criminals out of boys and first offenders.

"We want to do away with the stripes and the chains and the insanitary, disgusting conditions."

"We will advocate some sort of compensation for the wives and children of the men who are serving time. As it is at present the families of the convicts are made to suffer almost as much as the prisoners themselves."

County of Warner Should Be Created

Manchester, the Logical County Seat. County Will Have 10,000 Population; $1,750,000 Taxable Values; Area Over 222 Square Miles.

The people situated in the southeastern portion of Meriwether, northern portion of Talbot and northeastern portion of Harris counties will petition the 1913 session of the legislature to create a new county to be named Warner, in honor of the late Chief Justice Hiram Warner, the area of which will be 222 square miles, while the area of the old counties after the proposed county of Warner is created will not be materially reduced, but will leave them among the larger counties of middle Georgia, and Meriwether will then contain 421 square miles; Harris, 465 square miles, and Talbot, 329 square miles. The territory to compose Warner county is inaccessible to either of the present county sites by railroads and in transacting legal business the citizens are required to go this distance by private conveyance over mountainous roads, which in rainy seasons are almost impassable; while a very large portion of the population has no means of conveyance and are forced to a great expense in reaching the present county sites.

Taxable Values of New County

The proposed county of Warner will have taxable values of one and three-quarter million dollars. This will leave Meriwether's taxable values of about twice the amount of Warner county; while Harris and Talbot, from which counties small values will be taken, will not be materially reduced, but have considerably more wealth than Warner and no incorporated town is to be taken from either Talbot or Harris and but a few miles of railroad.

The population of Warner county will be upwards of 10,500, of which more than 2,000 live in Manchester, the proposed county seat. At least 5,000 of those living within the country territory closely adjoining Manchester have to travel 14 to 20 miles to their present respective county sites. Warner county would exceed in population 32 counties in the state.

Roads and Bridges

Warner county as proposed will take from the three affected counties its proportion of roads and bridges as compared to its area and wealth, while the roads and bridges in this territory have received but little attention, as the taxes collected by the old counties have been spent on the roads and bridges nearer the present county sites, and other sections of the counties, since this territory occupies the "remote corners," consequently has had little influence in securing road improvements.

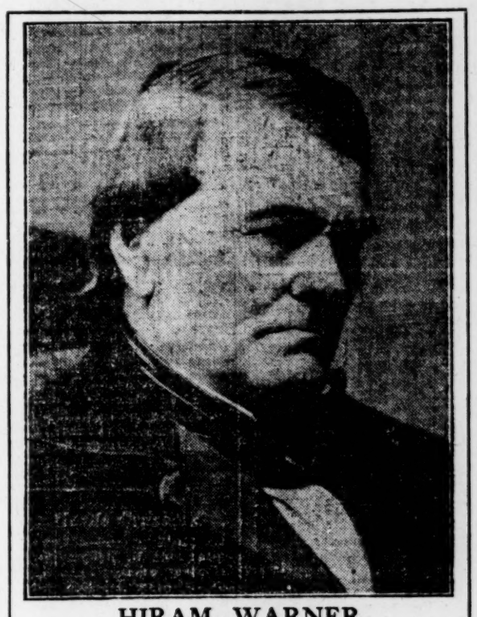

Warner county, as proposed, will include Gill, Chalybeate, First, Raleigh, Bullochville and parts of the Third, Harris and lower Ninth districts of Meriwether county; portions of Valley Plains district of Harris county and Flint Hill, and parts of Pleasant Hill and Valley districts of Talbot county.

The distance from Manchester, the proposed county site of Warner county, to Greenville, the county site of Meriwether, over public roads is 18 miles; to Hamilton, the county site of Harris, 20 miles, and to Talbotton, the county site of Talbot, 20 miles. No citizen living in the proposed county would be required to travel farther than 12 miles to reach Manchester, the proposed county site.

Schedule of Trains

No portion of Warner county at present is directly connected by rail with its respective county site. Those wishing to attend court by rail from Manchester and its vicinity must leave Manchester at 4 o'clock a. m., change at Durand and arrive in Greenville at 8 o'clock a. m., requiring a layover at Durand of about three hours. Returning, leave Greenville at 6 o'clock p. m., arriving at Manchester at 11:40 p. m., necessitating a lay-over at Durand of five hours, or about 20 hours to go a distance of 20 miles and return. This is the most convenient schedule.

The present counties are well provided with modern jails and courthouses.

HIRAM WARNER

Brief Sketch of Late Chief Justice HIRAM WARNER

Hiram Warner, for whom Warner County is to be named, was born at Williamsburg, Hampshire County, Mass., on October 29th, 1802. He sailed for Savannah when 19 years of age, but was shipwrecked off Cape Hatteras, and reached the Georgia port weeks later. He settled first at Sparta as a teacher. He studied law and was admitted to the bar at Knoxville, Crawford County, in 1824. He married there and had one child, a daughter, the mother of Associate Justice Hiram Warner Hill of the Supreme Court of Georgia.

He was a member of the Legislature 1828-31. He was elected judge of the Coweta Circuit of the Superior Court of Georgia in 1833. At that time there was no Supreme Court, and Superior Court judges gathered in annual conventions to discuss their decisions and establish uniformity of practice.

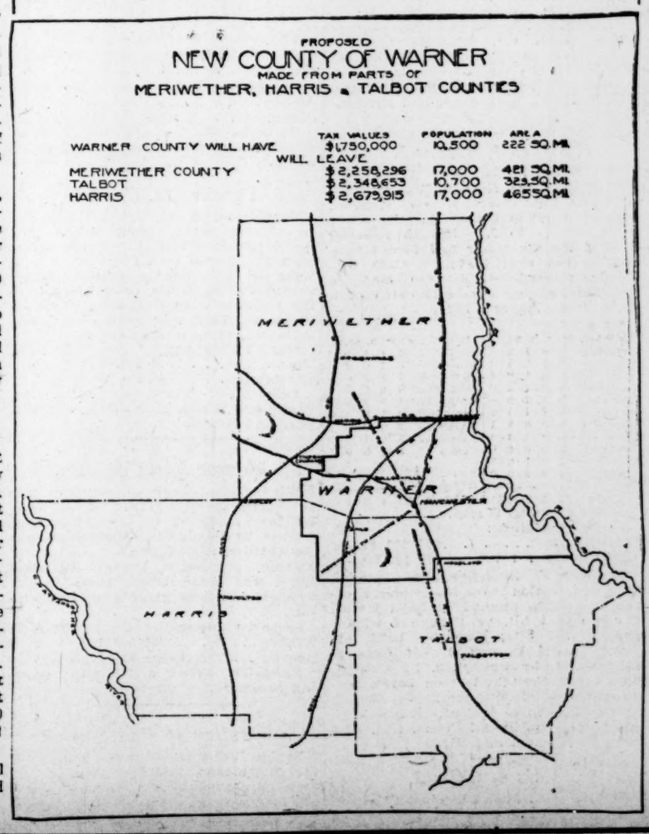

In 1845 the Supreme Court of Georgia was organized and with Joseph Henry Lumpkin and Eugenius A. Nesbit was elected to that high branch of the judiciary. He defeated Benjamin H. Hill for Congress in 1855; was renominated, but declined re-election. Nearly 60 years old when the war came, he was at home caring for his family, his only son-in-law being at the front. He was held by Wilson's raiders and actually hanged and left for dead because he did not tell where suspected gold was hidden.

Later he was appointed to the judgeship of Coweta Circuit by Governor Jenkins. He was named Chief Justice of the Supreme Court of Georgia in 1867 to succeed Chief Justice Lumpkin, deceased.

His decisions from the bench and his printed decisions upon the Supreme Court bench are classics in Georgia's judicial history and his decisions are leading ones in ruling on similar cases today.

Judge Warner was reared a Presbyterian. He never joined a religious denomination. He lived and died, however, a believer in the Bible, the truths of Christianity and the creed of that denomination to which his family belonged. It was his habit to keep upon the table in his bedroom to the last day of his life, two books: one was Blackstone, and the other was the Bible. This Bible his mother gave him when he left home for his long journey. To this same Bible he turned for comfort and support when, 58 years afterward, an old and broken man, he entered the valley of the shadow.

It is this man whose memory is sought to be revered in the creation of the county which is to bear his name—Warner.

Little Territory From Three of the State's Largest Counties Will Give County. New County Has Railroads — Sentiment Favors It.

No county has ever been created in which the sentiment was stronger for a new county than Warner. The movement has been spontaneous in all sections and our petitions contain more than 95 per cent of the white electors in Warner county. The people realize the great inconvenience with which they are now burdened and have joined unanimously in the movement.

Situation of Warner

The proposed county of Warner will include portions of Pine and Oak mountains. In recent years most of this section was considered of little value on account of its inaccessibility and the rough character of the country. Little money has been spent by the counties in developing this territory, and the roads, most of them crossing the mountains and ridges, are bad, and have received but little attention.

In 1906 the A., B. & A. railroad was built, traversing this section with its Birmingham and Atlanta lines merging at Manchester; since which time Manchester has grown to be a town of about 2,000 people, as a result of which the territory adjoining Manchester has developed very rapidly; approximately $2,000,000 having been spent in improvements and business naturally drifted in this direction. The people residing in this territory buy all their supplies and sell their produce at Manchester, Bullochville, Raleigh, Chalybeate and Shiloh. Nothing calls them out of the proposed county except court duty, and they are deprived of the privilege accorded the majority of our people in the state of transacting their business and attending court in the same day.

Demand of Modern Times

In this day of modern methods, when man's greatest asset is his time, when all business has become greatly intensified and concentration and conservation are occupying the attention of all progressive, thinking people, all men must realize that to make a success out of any public institution its interest must be well guarded. In this connection, large counties cannot receive their just consideration. It is out of the question for the county commissioners in the three counties affected to give the counties' business the attention which it deserves. The area is too large, the business too vast, the demands too great and the distance too far for the county authorities to attend to the business properly.

General Statements of Interest

Manchester, the proposed county site, contains one large cotton mill, railroad shops and division offices of the A., B. & A. R. R., one bank, 33 brick store buildings and 16 wooden store buildings, all of which are occupied by various lines of general merchandise, two moving picture theaters, one newspaper and printing office, three hotels, five churches, modern school system, municipal light plant, two livery and sale stables, two large builders' supply houses, fireproof warehouse and gin.

Bullochville has several large supply houses, one bank, guano factory, also the Tuscawilla, a magnificent three-story brick hotel with modern equipment throughout, the best equipped hotel in the state in a town many times its size. Near Bullochville is located the famous Warm Springs resort, which is too well known to be described.

Just above Bullochville is the thriving town of Raleigh, which controls all business within its territory.

South of Bullochville on the Southern railroad is Shiloh, now located in Harris county, one of the best farming supply towns in the state.

East of Manchester on the A., B. & A. is located Chalybeate Springs, a resort famous since antebellum days. The water from these springs has been known throughout the state since Georgia's early history.

Just east of Chalybeate is the Tatum Iron company's mines, which are now being successfully developed.

All facts stated herein are not exaggerated, but can be substantiated with unlimited amount of evidence.

Joe Conzelman scored his fourth straight win since joining the Crackers when he shut the Turtles out at Red Elm Wednesday afternoon, and he pitched a great game throughout, tightening up whenever they threatened.

Conzelman Wins His Fourth Straight

EDITED BY Dick Jemison

WHIFFS

Tied Record.

CONZELMAN tied the Southern league record in the game with Memphis on Wednesday. In the seventh inning he fanned the side, retiring Shanley, Snell and Harrell on nine pitched strikes. The only time that this performance has ever been duplicated in the Southern league was when Rube Zellars was a member of the Atlanta team.

As Was Expected.

THE RED SOX unfurled their world's series pennant to the breeze Wednesday afternoon and promptly lost the pastime to the New York Yankees. But this was to be expected. The home team always loses when they raise the pennant or have a trophy day or something of that character.

Looks Promising.

THE GAMES twirled by Dent, Price and Conzelman show that the Crackers have three twirlers that can be depended upon to win regularly. If Musser and Brady will now come to life with a few wins the prospects of the locals will brighten considerably.

Thou Art a Jewel.

THE GINK that coined the expression "consistency, thou art a jewel," must have had the 1913 Crackers in mind. If the Crackers were consistent they would look like the highest priced gem on the mark. Lack of consistency has been their one big drawback this season. When the pitching is good the hitting is bad. When both are good the fielding goes wrong. It is always something different. A lot of games have been kicked away this season by inconsistent work.

Has Been Canned.

CARL THOMPSON, the former University of Georgia pitcher, who caused the local fans and press to emit loud guffaws with the statement that "he was the best pitcher in the Southern league," has departed from hence. The main trouble with Carl was that he thought he knew more baseball than the guy that invented the game. Molesworth has finally disagreed with him. Carl was able to win but one game in twelve starts.

Is Going Back.

BRING OUT the stretcher. Christy Mathewson is through. The Giants' star is aging rapidly. After thirteen years of steady hurling he can only win ten of his first fourteen starts in a season, and in scoring his tenth win he is only forced to twirl seventy balls in the nine innings. As a candidate for charter membership of the D. & O. club, Matt's application will not be presented for some time to come. Poor old Matty.

Not Begrudged.

JOHN TAYLOR'S fifth victory in the British open golf championship is not begrudged in the least. It would have been inconsiderate of John McDermott, the American champion, to go across the water and win the tournament. Poor old John Bull. He's won in something at last. Those blasted Hamericans are winning everything. With the polo cup staying here and strong prospects of the tennis championship being won by McLoughlin and the sting of the Olympic games rankling in his breast, it's time ne was winning something. We begrudge him none. Shades of 1776. Also 1812.

The Real Menace.

SOME M. D. or alleged M. D. came out some time ago with a statement that the great American game of baseball was a menace to the nation. Look closer to home, doctor. In the humble opinion of Whiffs any attraction that permits the masses to assemble in the great out-of-doors and exercise their lungs is far from being a menace. It needs no investigation, but a ban placed on quacks who use the Sunday supplements for their self gain when one of the ethics of the medical profession is non-advertising, would not be amiss. This is the real menace. Get off your back, doctor.

The "Break."

HOW the little inanimate thing called "break" is figuring in the big league races can be clearly proven by a glance at the following statistics. Eighteen games in the American league and twenty-two in the National have been won out in the ninth inning, and in the main one run has turned the trick. If this isn't bringing the "break" down to a fine point then we pass the issue.

Does Not Talk.

MONEY does not talk as strongly in baseball circles as it did a few years ago. For instance, the St. Louis Cardinals offered big prices for the immediate delivery of Pitchers McQuillian, of Columbus; Morgan, of Kansas City; Smith, of Montreal; Shawkey, of Baltimore, and Williams, of Sacramento. In each instance the offer was spurned. Minor league clubs would rather have good ball players nowadays than the money. With good players they can make up the deficit at the gate, and the majors are finding the sledding much harder than it used to be. Even in the purchases recently announced it will be noted that all the trades were for fall delivery.

The David Harum.

CLYMER, manager of the Wilkesbarre, New York State league, last season, and now manager of the Buffalo club, of the International league, is known as the David Harum of baseball. Last season he made fifty-two changes in the personnel of his Wilkesbarre club, making money for the club on every swap of players, getting a good ball player in exchange, and eventually getting together a combination that won twenty-odd games in a row and finished within a fraction of a game of winning the rag. It looks like a big league berth for Clymer soon, as he is having the same uncanny trading results with the Bisons this season.

The Change.

LAST YEAR the Giants trampled all over the Brooklyn Trolley Dodgers whenever they chanced to meet. Look at the same teams this season. The Giants and Dodgers have met in eight contests this season, and five of them have gone in the win chest of Dahlen. What a difference just a few hours mea

Conzelman Turtles' Master; Triples By Long and Bailey Produce Game's Lone Tally

By Herbert Caldwell.

Memphis, Tenn., June 25.—(Special.) Atlanta used one run and Conzelman, and with these weapons took the first game of the season with Memphis this afternoon. In nine innings sparkling with brilliancy, the lately acquired Cracker chunker was the big sparkler. He was about the best preventer of near runs seen in Red Elm hollow this season.

It was in the third frame of the setto that the lone marker of the game was chalked up and the Cracker "big four" was responsible for the marking.

Tommy Long started it and finished it. The leading Southern locater of uncovered territory started things off with a drive past second base and when it was returned Long was safely squatted on third base. Welchonce flew out to Schweitzer. Alpermann sent a high foul into the air and after a hard run Snell bagged it. Just when things began to look bright for Harrell, Bailey snagged one of the long hurler's slants on the seam and Long scampered across with the count that resulted in the only one. Bailey's wallop was good for three bases, but that was all. Smith missed three.

Pitchers Great.

The remainder of the game was a pinch pitchers' duel, with Harrell forced to do the more labor. Enough near runs were made to have won several games.

Tommy Long cheated Ward out of $50 and also what might have been a Turtle run. Ward, first up in the second round, slammed one straight for the bull. Long stood on his tiptoes and caught the ball. Schweitzer followed with a single, but two outs came next. Memphis had a man on third in the third inning. With one out, Harrell was safe on Bisland's low toss to first of a slow roller. Baerwald flew out. Butler shoved Harrell to third with a single. But Love followed with a grounder, forcing Butler at second.

The next nearest thing to the making of a run came in the sixth, and Memphis was the near maker. With two out, Ward tripled to the center field ditch. Schweitzer walked. Abstein bounced a slow one to third, and Agler dug the throw out of the dirt, heading off the home first-sacker by a scant margin.

Some Near Scores.

The Crackers got a man to second in the seventh with one out, but Chapman and Conzelman were easy outs, and Bisland, who had walked and was sacrificed to second, died on that spot.

In the Turtles' half of the seventh frame, Conzelman retired the side by pitching just nine balls. Shanley, Snell and Harrell were the victims of Conzelman's slants.

Shanley prevented another Cracker counter in the eighth. Long started with his third hit of the day. Welchonce beat out a bunt. Alpermann sacrificed his chance. Harrell then struck Bailey out. Smith ripped one off toward second that looked like a sure hit. Shanley flagged the ball on a hard run, turned and threw to first and it was all over.

Atlanta got a man to third again in the ninth. With one out, Agler singled. Chapman followed with a single, sending Agler to third, but was caught at second after Agler was safe at third. Conzelman flew out to Love.

The tall twirler was hardly even under strain. His control was good and he never showed signs of wiltering.

Mobile, Ala., June 25.—Nashville won the opening game of the series from Mobile this afternoon by a score of 4 to 3. With wour hits and two stolen bases the locals scored all three of their runs in the third after which More was invincible. A double and single in the sixth gave Nashville one run and in the next inning, after Noyes had singled, Robertson misjudged Gibson's line hit and it went for a three-bagger, both runners crossing the plate when Stock threw into the bleachers in handling the relay. Nashville scored the winning run in the next inning on Perry's triple and Schwartz's single. Two accidents marred the game, Goalby being badly spiked in the hand when Robertson slid into third, and Catcher Gibson suffering from heat prostration in the seventh, after circling the bases, both men necessitating the attention of a physician.

WHITE-BRITTON BOUT CUT TO TEN ROUNDS

New Orleans, June 25.—Definite announcement was made today by promoters in charge that the twenty-round fight between Jack Britton and Charlie White, scheduled to be held July 4 at McDonoghville, a suburb, would be changed to a ten-round go and be staged at an arena in New Orleans.

The change resulted from the announcement yesterday of Governor Hall that no twenty-round fight would be allowed in Louisiana. Opposition of New Orleans authorities to a twenty-round bout was responsible for the original plan to hold the event at McDonoghville.

Splendid Card of Events At Prince's Motordrome

A splendid card of events, full of thrills, with every heat but one closely contested, the third series of motorcycle races at Jack Prince's Motordrome run last night was a huge success.

Wilmer Richards made the fastest time when in the third heat of the Woodward sweepstakes he covered the 2 miles in 1:24, an average speed of 86 miles an hour.

Richards and McNeil divided the honors for the evening, the former winning the final of the Motordrome purse and the latter the fnal in the Woodward sweepstakes. Henry Lewis won the special match race.

The final race of the night, the final of the Motordrome purse, was the most exciting race of the program. Richard, Shields, McNeil and Renal were the contestants. Renal took the lead, then McNeil.

McNeil sprang engine trouble and dropped back three quarters of a lap, the other three riding abreast for three laps, with McNeil trailing. Suddenly, the Scotchman's engine spoke up sharply and he started after the three leaders. Gradually the distance narrowed down. No human being ever traveled as fast. If he had had another lap, he would have won. As it was, he finished a matter of only a few yards behind the three leaders.

Richards sprang a sensation in one of the heats when, trailing the bunch, he suddenly shot high on the bank cutting in in front of the leaders close to the finish and winning by a nose.

The next races are scheduled for next Saturday night. A crowd numbering close to 6,000 witnessed Wednesday night's races.

Empire State League May End First Season On Saturday, June 28

Cordele, Ga., June 25.—(Special.)—On the grounds that Secretary Leavy erred when he gave out the information that the second series of the Empire State league would begin on July 3, President Grover, who is here today, has notified the Cordele club that the first series ends on June 28, which will give fifty-one games to each series.

However he has called a meeting of the league directors for Friday at Valdosta to determine upon this point.

The president's statement is creating a great deal of dissatisfaction here. If the present series closes on July 3, as has been thought all along, Cordele stands a chance of winning out, though by the other arrangement, since Cordele would close in Valdosta, she would stand little chance of taking two out of three, which would have to be done to win.

First All-Steel Train Is Brought to Atlanta By Seaboard Air Line

The first all-steel train that has ever reached Georgia passed through the Union depot Wednesday. To the Seaboard Air Line goes the credit for putting on the first through steel train ever seen in this state.

While for the past year the Seaboard has used the all-steel sleeping coaches on trains Nos. 5 and 6 between Birmingham and Washington, yesterday was the first day upon which the all-steel effect had been carried out from the point of the engine to the tip of the observation car.

As yet the entire equipment has not arrived, but in a week, says Mr. Geissler, assistant general passenger agent of the Seaboard, both No. 5 and No. 6 will be regularly equipped with all-steel cars, including coaches, sleepers, dining cars and mail and express cars. The general plan of the management is to eventually place steel cars on all its trains.

Mr. Geissler, in speaking of the dining car equipment of his road, stated that the new dining cars were generally conceded to be the handsomest cars of this nature in the railway service, and that each car represented an approximate cost of $30,000. In addition to the physical valuation of the cars, Mr. Geissler states that the Seaboard has secured the best dining car superintendent in the country in the person of R. E. Raupe, who has been connected with this phase of railroading all his life.

MORE MONEY NEEDED FOR YANCEY FAMILY

Subscriptions for the Yancey fund are still coming in slowly, and it is estimated that only a little over $1,000 has been raised. The greater part of the money has been put in the bank by Sheriff C. W. Mangum, while other sums have been sent to the various newspapers and will be turned over to the family as soon as more money is secured.

Deputy Dave Yancey, who was killed over a week ago while erforming his duty in attempting to arrest a negro thief, left a widow and six children in an impoverished condition and with a $900 mortgage on the little home.

Enough money has been subscribed to pay off the mortgage and present the home to the family, but as the oldest child, a girl of 15 years, has been sent back to the hospital and the family has no present support, it is desired to raise an additional sum in order that they may be put in a way of making a support.

The Constitution acknowledges the following subscriptions, not previously mentioned:

T. R. Sawtell	$10.00
H. W. Baldwin, Madison, Ga.,	5.00

DRINKS AND A CHECK PLAY PART IN TRIAL

The story of how a slightly intoxicated man in wrapping up his clothes to take them from the Southern Express office inclosed in them a letter containing a cashier's check for $126 was told yesterday afternoon in the criminal division of superior court, when R. L. Underwood, formerly an employee of the company, was placed on trial for larceny from the house.

It is claimed by the prosecution that Underwood was at the office and while wrapping up his clothes had access to the valuable letter. Through W. C. Burpitt, another ex-employee, the attempt was made to show this.

The letter was found in the bundle at Underwood's boarding house, according to his own admission, but he claims that it must have fallen off the table or got entangled in his clothes where he was wrapping them. It was Burpitt who swore that the man was intoxicated at the time.

Underwood is represented by Attorney Lamar Hill, while Attorney Philip Alston is associated with the state in the prosecution. The case is due to be resumed today.

COOL WAVE EXPECTED TO REACH CITY SOON

Joyful News for Sweltering Atlantans Given Out by Local Forecaster.

News that may cause paens of joy in Atlanta was gently whispered in the weather bureau yesterday afternoon. It was nothing less than the announcement of a cool spell at present sojourning among the Rocky mountains and adjacent territory, and the possibilities of its arrival here within the near future.

Atlantans, who do not recall what a cool spell is, may consult Webster's unabridged or call up the weather men. He will gladly describe one and will also add that there is a chance for a shower today, and that, if the shower comes on schedule time, it may be followed closely by the cool spell.

At present all indications are that the weather will reach the usual point of 90 degrees in the shade again today. That was the maximum on Wednesday.

The lowest temperature that has been reached in the past week at any time, day or night, has been 70 degrees, while the maximum for two days last week was 96 in the shade.

Within the past three or four days the mercury has rested at 90 degrees each day for an hour or so, but has declined to climb any higher.

TRIAL OF POLICEMAN POSTPONED FOR TERM

The trial of Policeman E. H. Parham for the murder of John Wright, a white boy, which was due to be taken up this week in the criminal division of superior court, has been postponed and will possibly come up at the next term.

It is claimed that the officer was called to a negro dwelling last December and saw the boy running from an outhouse and ordered him to halt. When the lad refused, the officer fired, shooting him in the back and killing him instantly.

While no one claims the officer shot with intent to kill, yet the case is regarded as a test one, since a number of cases have come up recently where policemen have shot at citizens whom they had ordered to halt and who were fleeing from them. None of the more recent cases resulted in a tragedy.

It is asserted that young Wright was running down a steep hill and this caused the officer to misdirect his fire and strike him about the waistline, causing his death.

More than the deciding of Officer Parham's fate will be a local decision as to the right of an officer to shoot down a fleeing citizen whom he has ordered to halt and submit to arrest.

Petition in Bankruptcy.

A voluntary petition in bankruptcy was filed with the clerk of the federal court yesterday by J. R. Clute, of Atlanta. The petitioner gives his liabilities at $1,459.78, with assets of $665.64.

CONEY ISLAND TRIPS TAKEN BY HIS WIFE CAUSE DIVORCE SUIT

Service by publication in two divorce suits in which the defendants are alleged to be out of the state, was declared perfected by Judge John T. Pendleton yesterday in superior court. The suits are those of W. T. Gould v. Mrs. Mella R. Gould, and that of Mrs. Margaret Holder v. W. R. Holder.

Gould declares that his wife left their comfortable home in New York city in January, 1911, after treating him cruelly in many ways and causing him to lose sleep and flesh. He declares that she even refused to sleep in the same room with him and showed a preference for the company of other men.

Going to dances and balls and to the amusements of Coney Island with other men than her husband are declared to have been Mrs. Gould's chief aim in life. Her husband declares that on one occasion she came home with a companion and that both of them were in a state of intoxication.

The Holder marital troubles, as outlined by the wife, are to the effect that her spouse beat, cursed and otherwise abused her and that "during the years she lived with him he made her life a hell on earth."

She declares that he also made a point to treat her as a gentle, courteous and loving husband should do when a third party was present. Mrs. Holder asks the custody of a 1-year-old daughter and also a total divorce.

CAPT. POOLE'S CHILDREN NEAR DEATH'S DOOR

Stricken by a sudden illness shortly after they had eaten dinner, three young children of Captain Lamar Poole, of the police department, were thought to be at death's door early yesterday afternoon.

A hurry call was sent to Grady hospital and an ambulance rushed to the Poole home at 255 Glennwood avenue. Chief Beavers reached the place in his automobile shortly after the arrival of the ambulance and surgeons.

The victims, Wallace, aged 12 years; Douglas, aged 8, and Elsie, aged 4, were suffering from a peculiar form of ptomaine poisoning created by vegetables they had eaten at dinner.

Quick work of the hospital surgeons saved their lives. They will suffer no serious consequences.

JUDGE J. N. BATEMAN GOES ON TRIAL TODAY

Judge J. N. aBteman, prominent Atlanta attorney, who is charged with fleecing Frank Rothleuter out of something like $9,000 by means of a "pool and racing parlor," operated on Whitehall street, is due to go on trial today in the criminal division of the superior court.

Rothleuter secured an indictment against the Atlantan last spring, after having him arrested in Florida to no avail. In reply to the charges Judge Bateman has issued a sweeping denial and brought suit for damages against Rothleuter and also against a detective who was instrumental in having him taken into custody.

Y. M. C. A. WILL VACATE OLD HOME JULY FIRST

New Building for Association Work Will Be Completed Sometime Next Summer.

The Young Men's Christian association will vacate its old building at Pryor street and Auburn avenue July 1 and turn it over to the new owner, the chamber of commerce.

Twenty-seven years this building has been in commission, open day and night and Sundays, conducting various programs of work bearing upon the four-sided natures of young men and boys—physical, mental, spiritual and economical. It has been a building for character building.

Many of the leading business men of Atlanta have had an impulse in this building that has changed the course of their lives. Many a boy just come to the city has here found a friend who tided him over the danger point in social and commercial life.

To the officers and members to be compelled to give it up is like losing an old personal friend.

All the activities of the association will be suspended till the splendid new twin building, now being constructed in Luckie street, is completed, which will be some time during the summer of 1914. Ssplendid progress is being made and every week the concrete structure rises higher. It is a very complicated set of plans, so the workmen say, and the work cannot be prosecuted as rapidly as an ordinary office building or hotel.

Arrangements have been made for headquarters of the association at the Baptist Tabernacle, where the working office will be located, and all meetings of the building committee, board of directors and trustees will be held there.

All the best furniture and apparatus will be stored and used in the new building. All the old furniture and apparatus will be for sale, and the ladies' anxiliary will be in charge of it, whatever proceeds they may realize going into their subscription to the building fund.

The sale will begin Friday night. An excellent program of music and readings will also be presented in the lecture room, free to all who attend.

All members and friends are invited to lend their presence to this last social occasion in the old building. The program will begin at 8 o'clock.

CANDLER COUNTY BILL INTRODUCED IN HOUSE

The proposed new county of Candler, with Metter as the county seat, enjoys the distinction of having had the first new county bill introduced in the house of representatives. The measure was introduced at the opening session by Representative A. A. Turner, of Bulloch, one of the counties from which it is proposed to take a portion of territory to make the new county. The Candler county committee has flung its banners to the breeze at the Kimball and is putting in some hard work with hopes of ultimate success.

Goodrich Unit Molded Tires have never had a "bad" season.

Year in and year out, since the automobile came into use and we made the first American clincher tire, they have more than satisfied every user with their long, uniform wear and their remarkably resilient qualities which increase the comfort and luxury of motoring.

Goodrich Tires are an added value and advantage to your car.

With Goodrich branches, service stations and dealers located everywhere the user of Goodrich Tires knows he will always be taken care of.

It is the unit molding of Goodrich Tires that adds wear to the purest rubber, compounded as our 43 years of experience proves is the best way to give it durability and toughness and to hold its resiliency and life. Each Goodrich Tire is made and molded as a unit. The thick, tough tread being actually of the tire and not simply on it, naturally does not peel or slip. The whole tire, being an integral structure, naturally wears long and uniformly because the life of the rubber has not been cooked out by extra vulcanization.

Your tire dealer will supply you with whatever style of Goodrich Tire is best for your needs, and we will send you, for the asking, our free folders which tell you how to get the best service from your tires.

CHICKENS need more care and attention the next two or three months than any other time during the year. It is perfectly natural for chickens to have lice and mites, and unless you look after them they will multiply in such quantities that you can not expect your flock to prove profitable. The little chicks will not reach the growth they should and the hens will not lay if they are covered with these pests. We have remedies that will positively get rid of them and the cost is very little. For 35c you can get a can of either Lee's, Conkey's or Pratt's Lice Liquid and we will guarantee either of these preparations to give entire satisfaction.

WE have just gotten in a lot of nice, fresh, clean Red Comb Feed. The price for scratch and mash is $2.25 per 100 pounds.

W. F. ARMOR DECLARES HE HAS NOT RESIGNED

Trustees of Georgia Industrial Home, However, Take Different View of Matter.

Macon, Ga., June 25.—(Special.)—W. F. Armour, who yesterday sent his resignation as farm superintendent to the trustees of the Georgia Industrial home as a result of general condemnation which followed his cruel beating of 10-year-old Marvin Williford, today says he has not resigned and will not do so. Members of the board of trustees take a different view of the matter. They have already received and accepted Armor's resignation and consider the matter a closed incident.

The day after the story telling of the whipping of the boy appeared in a local paper Armor was suspended and at once left for St. Simons island. He did not stay in Macon to testify at the investigation held by the board of trustees. In the report of the committee yesterday Armor was condemned for beating the boy with a plowline, but the trustees gave him a clean bill of health for his conduct previous to that time.

Today it is alleged an examination of the Williford boy was made in the office of a physician and only a few bruises could be seen. Affidavits were signed, however, today by Chief of Police Chapman, members of police and fire departments, Mayor Moore and others who saw the boy stripped the night after he had been whipped, that his body bore abrasions from his legs to his shoulders, some of which were bleeding.

GOV. SULZER REBUFFED BY N. Y. LEGISLATURE

Albany, N. Y., June 25.—After the decisive defeat of Governor Sulzer's direct primary bill in the assembly last night, Assemblyman Eisner, who introduced it, went to the governor today and urged him to accept a compromise.

The governor declined to commit himself, but indicated that he might give favorable consideration to a compromise bill if it should be sent to him.

The governor's direct primary bill was defeated in the senate today by a vote of 10 to 38.

The Blauvelt primary bill, which was passed twice at the regular session and vetoed each time by the governor as a "make shift" and a "fraud," passed the assembly today by a vote of 77 to 59.

New Presbyterian Plans.

It is said that the property committee of the First Presbyterian church has a new idea for the disposition of their present location on Marietta, near Spring street. It is said that they want their church members form a corporation, buy in the lot and erect substantial income-bearing improvements, thereby saving the committee selling out the property at a sacrifice. It is also said that a cash offer has been made the committee for the property by a promoter who wishes to subdivide the land and resell it for building sites.

The property, which has a 90-foot frontage on Marietta street, has been held for some time for $180,000.

Decatur Street Deal.

The M. C. Kiser agency sold for C. H. Chapman to Mrs. Margaret R. Tyler Nos. 362-4 Decatur street, improved property, for a consideration of $9,000 or $180 per front foot. The land is 50x120 feet.

CAMPAIGN STARTS FOR CLEANLINESS

Griffin Stirred Over Report of Inspectors on Slaughter Pen Conditions.

Griffin, Ga., June 25.—(Special.)—The report of State Inspectors Hutchens and Methvin relative to market and slaughter pen conditions here has stirred up a hornet's nest among the meat dealers and incidentally started a campaign for cleanliness in other directions.

The city board of health has under consideration the source of milk supply and will investigate other public welfare interests also.

The full report of the meat inspectors was published in the local paper here today. The Oxford Sanitary market, which last Sunday offered a reward of $100 if the report referred to it, today makes reply and not only says the reports is incorrect and unjust, but also seems to be a malicious misrepresentations of facts. It is understood that one of the proprietors of the Oxford market went to Atlanta today to confer with Mr. Hutchens regarding the matter.

Beauty of Mrs. Fisher To Be Saved From Scar By Medical Invention

The beauty of Mrs. "Bud" Fisher, wife of the famous creator of Mutt and Jeff, who is better known throughout the vaudeville stage as Pauline Welch, will be saved from a hideous scar by a modern medical invention, patent medical clamps which clinch into the cuticle like bachelor buttons.

Last Sunday night, shortly after she had retired in her apartments at the Piedmont, Mrs. Fisher went through the darkness into the bathroom for a pitcher of ice water. Stumbling over a chair, she fell to the floor, her throat striking against the jagged edge of the crushed pitcher, which had fallen from her hands.

A gaping wound several inches long was made in her throat. Before medical aid could reach her, it looked as though she would die from loss of blood. Twenty stitches were taken in the wound, which extended from a point directly beneath the chin to the right ear.

Nine aluminum clamps were pinned into the wound. They will clinch the flesh so closely together that when the injury heals, it will be hardly discernible. Her husband said yesterday that they would probably leave for New York next Friday, but that Mrs. Fisher would hardly be able to return to the stage again this summer.

Advertising drives the wheels of trade

Let us consider the value of the introduction:

Smith, with a friend, meets you. Smith says, "Jones, let me introduce Mr. Brown." You shake hands and talk. You leave. You think more of Mr. Brown than you would if he had walked up to you without the introduction.

Or Brown enters your office and hands you a letter. It is written by Smith and is an introduction. You greet Brown genially and give him your assistance if he needs it.

It is the same way in advertising. A paper has won, as friends, thousands of people in every walk in life. When it presents an ad for their consideration they pay attention; they are pleased to meet the merchant's statement—and they read.

Hence, they naturally think more of the merchant whose ad they read than they would had they simply entered his store minus that introduction by their paper.

This is what The Constitution offers you. An introduction to substantial people who need your goods. Don't you think you stand a better show with this introduction than you do without it?

COTTON MADE GAIN OF 15 TO 22 POINTS

Renewed Demand Caused the Advance—Active Buying in Afternoon.

New York, June 25.—The cotton market was more active today, with prices advancing on a renewed demand from both old and new crop shorts, and with the close steady at a net gain of from 15 to 22 points.

The opening was firm at an advance of 1 to 9 points, in response to somewhat better cables than expected, a more favorable view of affairs in the Balkans and larger English spot sales. Late months were relatively firm on the call, but July shot up right after the opening, and the whole list sold about 12 to 18 points net higher late in the forenoon. Wall street interests and houses, with both Memphis and New Orleans connections were active buyers on this advance, while the demand was supplied on a scale up by realizing of old longs, including houses with foreign connections.

When July was selling around 12.30, prominent brokers, supposed to be operating fo rone of the houses that took up May cotton here for shipment to Liverpool, offered that delivery in considerable blocks, and one of them offered to "stop" (sell) 10,000 July at 12.25. This had the effect of checking the advance temporarily, although it had suggested a possible limit on the bull side, but the market firmed up again later, on renewed coverings, and a more general demand for new crop months. This seemed to be inspired by reports that a prominent Memphis authority estimated the condition of the crop as of June 22 at only 813.3 per cent, comparing with his report of 81.2 per cent as of June 10, and the government report of 79.1 per cent of May 25.

Prices reached the highest level of the day in late trading, with July selling at 12.22 or 23 points net higher, while new crop positions showed net gains of from 17 to 18 points. The close was a shade off from the best under realizing.

Friday will be first July notice day in the local market, and it is expected that the bulk of the stock here will be tendered, but there are less than 42,000 bales certificated and arrivals here are not yet increasing materially.

Cotton spot closed quiet; middling uplands, 12.50; do gulf, 12.75; sales, none.

New Orleans Cotton.

New Orleans, June 25.—The cotton market held steady today throughout the entire session. Several times there were setbacks on profit taking by satisfied longs, but reactions were only temporary and at all times the market had a firm undertone. Buying was based chiefly on reports of too dry weather from several states in the cotton region and the forecast of more dry weather to come.

On the opening the tone was steady and prices were 5 to 7 points higher on good cables and light offerings. Considerable bearish gossip was afloat on the clean state of fields and the quick blooming of the plant in several important sections of the belt, but very little short cotton was offered for sale. It was said that Liverpool was leading in the buying of the new crop months. At no time during the session was the market active, but a small demand was in evidence at all times, and it served to maintain values. In the afternoon prices were at their highest, 14 to 15 points over yesterday's final quotations. The close was steady at a net rise of 9 to 10 points.

The weather map noted light showers widely scattered over the belt. Arkansas complained loudest about droughty conditions. There appeared to be no chance for rain in the immediate future.

Spot cotton steady and unchanged; middling 12⅝; sales on the spot 103 bales; to arrive 239; low ordinary 9¼, nominal; ordinary 10 1-16, nominal; strict ordinary 11 15-16; low middling 12 5-16 strict low middling 12 7-16; middling 12⅝; strict middling 12 15-16; good middling 13⅛; strict good middling 13 5-16; middling fair 13¾, nominal; middling fair to fair 14¼, nominal; fair 14½, nominal; receipts 1,404; stock 56,403.

Dry Goods.

New York, June 25.—Although comparatively little business was placed on cotton goods for the fall season, there was steady inquiry for small quantities of goods for prompt shipment. Buyers showed an unusual amount of anxiety to procure goods they have on order. Cheap hosiery and underwear were in active demand for the next spring season. The advance business booked is substantial. Some of the mills are practically sold up on union suits.

Hubbard Bros. & Co.

New York, June 25.—A more cheerful situation in reference to the Balkan troubles in the large spot demand in Europe today. Covering of short Julys was the feature of the market here, although the demand from recent sellers appeared as a result of a private estimate, which was lower than had been anticipated. The July position, and the influence of private reports, will be the controlling factors, unless some very bad weather appears between now and the bureau report, as it becomes evident whether or not the Liverpool long interest will receive tenders on Friday, and as the trade form their idea regarding the report to be issued in July.

John F. Black & Co.

New York, June 25.—The strength of the cotton market was shown again today when, without urging, there was an advance of 15 to 21 points. Old crop months were very strong, which is natural considering the small stock; but new crop months were also strong, and the bears are getting very discouraged. Complaints of lack of rain are coming from many sections of the west, and a big crop is not a certainty by any means, while a big spinners' demand is.

Liverpool is due to come 2 to 3½ points up.

Gibert & Clay.

New York, June 25.—A better demand for spot cotton in Europe and a renewal of buying of July and August here brought about short covering in the new crop today, which changed prices about 12 points. In the neighborhood of 12.25 for July, there was an increase in offerings sufficient to meet the demand, especially as general buying did not follow the early covering movement. Crop reports, as a whole, are satisfactory, but the strength of the remainder of the existing supply of cotton restricts speculative selling for the present.

Sales, 10,000, including 8,800 American and 500 for speculation and exports. Receipts 2,000, including 1,500 American. Futures closed steady.

Cotton Seed Oil.

New York, June 25.—Cotton seed oil was active again today, old crop deliveries making new high records on demand from shorts and refiners. New crop months were barely steady, under scattered selling by commission houses and local refiners. Europe has been a buyer of December and January of late. Old crop months sold 3 to 5 points net higher and new crop unchanged to point lower. Sales 23,100 barrels.

London Stock Market.

London, June 25.—The stock market opened firm and higher today, but speculative issues soon eased off, on realizing. Consols declined 3-16 when the increased rate of 5 per cent in the Netherland bank was announced. The closing was dull, but foreign and home rails and Grand Trunk shares showed good advances, and the whole market finished above the lowest.

American securities opened steady and from 1-4 to 2 points higher New York selling and realizing caused a reaction in the second hour, and the list sagged under the lead of Chesapeake and Ohio until, in the late trading, when the market hardened again on slight support, and closed steady. The general settlement on the stock exchange is being arranged at rates a fraction harder, but it is believed it will be completed without trouble.

Money and discount rates were slightly easier.

DROUTH IN DAKOTAS STRENGTHENED WHEAT

Market Closed Firm After Prospect of Bad Setback.

Chicago, June 25.—Statements that contrary to first reports, the burnt district of South Dakota had not been touched by rain except in a few spots, rallied the wheat market today from a sharp setback. The close was firm at prices varying from 1-8@1-4 cent under last night to 1-8 cent above. The outcome in corn was a shade down to 1-4 cent up and for oats an advance of 5-8 to 3-4@7-8 cent. Provisions finished lower by 5 to 10 cents.

What appeared to be a general rainfall over the spring crop region kept wheat on the down grade during the first half of the session. Bears took the aggressive, particularly on a message telling of an inch of rain near Aberdeen, S. D., where some of the worst effects of the heat and drouth have developed. Later news, however, declared that the greater part of eight counties had not yet been relieved. Recovery was aided by tidings that many western sections of both North and South Dakota, no matter what happened, would yield only enough for seed. There also were estimates that the total spring crop would fall short 100,000,000 bushels compared with 1912. Cash demand was good for milling and for export as well. Seaboard clearances of wheat and flour equalled 229,000 bushels. Primary receipts of wheat were 644,000 bushels; a year ago 236,000.

Corn became oversold on a break, due to excellent conditions for growth. Subsequently shorts and longs alike were in a buying flurry that originated in bullish figures on probable yields. It was said later that the estimates had not made allowance for the effect of rains.

After early weakness with other grain, oats rebounded on questionable assertions that the total crop would be 40 per cent under last year.

UNION PACIFIC STOCK CENTER OF INTEREST

Fell More Than a Point During Day, Closing at Loss.

New York, June 25.—The strong tone of the stock market earlier in the week was lacking today, and movements were held within narrow limits. Some further progress upward was made, with railroad stocks showing to the best advantage, but in the last hour the market dipped downward, and gains were eliminated.

Speculative interest centered in Union Pacific. Buying was influenced by expectations that Washington authorities would aprove the dissolution plan, including in the trusteeship proposed for Union Pacific $90,000,000 of Southern Pacific stock in excess of the amount to be turned over to Pennsylvania.

Just before the close came the long awaited news from Washington of the attorney general's announcement that an agreement had been reached. The news failed to stimulate the market, apparently having been discounted by the recent rise. Traders who had bought Union Pacific earlier in the week took profits, and it fell more than a point under the day's high price, closing at a fractional net loss.

Cable reports that fresh hostilities had broken out in the Balkans were partly responsible for the heavy tone of the market toward the close. International stocks were most conspicious in the downward movement. London, which bought stocks here freely earlier in the week, sold about 15,000 shares today, chiefly Union Pacific.

Contraction of the short interest on the recent rise weakened the technical position of the market and was to some extent responsible for the falling off in demand today. There were a few weak stocks. Chesapeake and Ohio fell 2 1-2 to 53, the year's lowest and Virginia-Carolina made a renewed decline. The drop in Chesapeake and Ohio gave rise to rumors concerning the company's dividend policy, for which, however, there was apparently well established basis.

Bonds were irregular with some of the more important issues lower. Total sales, par value, $1,139,00.

Panama 3's declined 1-8 on call.

LETTER MAY IDENTIFY BOY FOUND IN RIVER

Carolina Authorities Believe Boy Who Was Drowned Came From Atlanta.

Will the tragic fate of a young Atlantan be revealed through a letter which was found on a Carolina river bank and which has been sent to The Constitution?

The letter is believed to have belonged to a youth who was mysteriously drowned in a river near Ansonville, Norwood, N. C., several days ago. The body of a youth, apparently 20 years old, and about 5 feet 9 inches, was found floating down the stream. The clothing revealed no means of identification, but a letter discovered some distance further up the bank addressed to G. G. Sampson, of Atlanta, Ga., indicated it was J. M. Sampson, of Atlanta. The coroner's inquest returned a verdict of death at the hands of party or parties unknown.

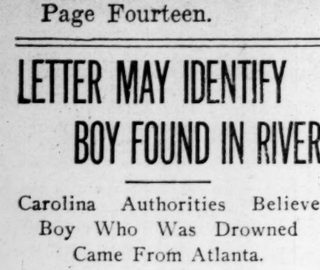

The Constitution is in receipt of a letter from J. C. Kearney, of Salisbury, N. C., who asks that an effort be made to locate the parents of the dead youth.

The substance of the letter which was believed to have been written by the victim is as follows:

Dear Father and Mother: Will write you a short letter to let you know how I am getting along. I am getting along finely. Am as well as could be expected. How you are all well. I am in Ansonville, now. Am going fishing tonight with a large crowd of young men. I like this country just fine. Will leave for Winston-Salem on the morning train, if nothing prevents me. I haven't lost my money yet. I have $740 left over. I will close my short letter. From your only son. By, by, papa and mama. I will remember you in my prayers.

Lovingly,
J. M. SAMPSON.

Chief Beavers has started an investigation into the case. So far G. G. Sampson has not been located.

CIVIC BEAUTY WORKERS ORGANIZE IN DECATUR

At a joint meeting of the civic beauty committees of the Decatur Board of Trade and the Decatur Woman's club in the courthouse at Decatur Tuesday afternoon it was decided to organize a neighborhood club in every section of Atlanta's sister city for the purpose of unifying and carrying out the complete beautification of Decatur.

The decision was not the end of the good work for several clubs were started on the spot. Mrs. Thomas H. Fulton started the Oak street club; Mrs. A. L. Brooks and Mrs. J. G. Addy, College avenue; Mrs. Jennie Findley, North Candler; Mrs. F. H. Hollister and Mrs. W. H. Cantrell, Jefferson place; Mrs. R. M. Lightfoot and Mrs. George Watts, Adams street.

It is planned to have these clubs meet and discuss everything that affects the appearance of Decatur, to plan and carry out systems of beautification and in every way promote better care of the lawns and streets and sidewalks of the town. Later they will take up the matter of securing parks and playgrounds.

In connection with the desire for parks, the question of a building to be used as a home for the Woman's club and the Daughters of the Confederacy was discussed and it developed that a fund for the purchase of a lot has been started by the daughters.

BREACH WITH MAYOR DENIED BY HUMPHREY

Finance Chairman Says He Did Not Say Mayor Was "Stalling" on Crematory Contract.

The story of an alleged "breach" between Councilman W. G. Humphrey and Mayor James G. Woodward over the signing of the $260,000 crematory contract was emphatically denied by the chairman of the finance committee last night.

Discussing his interview with the mayor, Councilman Humphrey declared that he did not charge that Woodward was "stalling" or "four-flusing." He explained that while he was not in thorough sympathy with Mayor Woodward's attitude in holding up the contract, still he did not offer any criticism.

"I did not say that I was in favor of ignoring the mayor," Councilman Humphrey said. "While I was leaving the office I told him that council would override his veto. No! I didn't say the mayor was stalling, but I did say that I was through with the crematory contract forever."

Relations Are Harmonious.

Councilman Humphrey said that in so far as he was concerned his relations with Mayor Woodward were entirely harmonious.

Mayor Woodward was incensed over the report. He said that his conference with Chairman Humphrey was pleasant throughout, and that he noticed nothing in the demeanor of the finance committee chairman to remotely indicate that he was ready to break off relations.

The contract between the city and the Destructor company, upon which the city is to purchase the garbage plant, has not reached the mayor for official approval or disapproval. The document was submitted to council and it was adopted. The aldermanic board held up the contract on a motion by Alderman Harwell to reconsider.

Mayor Woodward says that the contract he has been asked to sanction conflicts with the decision of the supreme court. Messrs. Evins and Spence, attorneys for the Destructor company, charge that the mayor is not sincere. They say that the contract carries none of the provisions of the old contract which the court invalidated. They charge that the mayor is fighting the contract because he does not want the city to install an electric generating plant. Under a resolution introduced by Alderman Nutting and adopted by council over the veto of the mayor, the city has the right to secure an option on the electric feature of the plant to be installed in 1914, if desired.

Woodward Charges Trap.

"The supreme court has decided that the old contract is illegal," the mayor said Wednesday. "I have knowledge, and I have been advised, that if I sanction any contract which conflicts with the supreme court decision, I am liable to punishment for contempt of court. Council will not draw up a contract that does not conflict with the court order. It seems to me like they are trying to draw me into a trap.

"I have said before, and I repeat, that if council will draw up a contract and eliminate all reference to the old contract, I'll sign it. I am now fighting for a contract which will have a standing in court, and will also protect the city by a proper bond."

Messrs. Evins and Spence, attorneys for the Destructor company, assert that the mayor will not sign any sort of contract, and charge that his conduct is in violation of his verbal agreement. W. E. Dowd, Jr., sales manager of the corporation, says that the company is anxious to settle the dispute, and will give the city an iron clad bond.

Evidently, C. P. Goree, attorney, who secured the injunction against the city, is moving to stop work on the plant. It is hinted that he is going to seek a rule for contempt against W. E. Dowd, Jr., and representatives of the company.

Subpoenas duces tecum were issued, it is said, to Asa G. Candler and John S. Owens, officers of the Central Bank and Trust company. It is said to bring the idea of the subpoenas is to bring out testimony as to the financing of the contract.

AT THE THEATERS.

"The Merry Whirl."

(At the Bijou.)

An attraction of unusual merit is being offered this week at the Bijou in the engagement of "The Merry Whirl," a musical comedy tabloid, with Miss Marjory Lake in the leading role. The play has quite a little pot, which is interwoven with any number of catchy songs and other entertaining features that keep the show going in a merry whirl. Miss Lake, as Fifi from Gay Paree, does some splendid singing that thoroughly captivates the audience.

The dancing and other specialties are good, and the work of the chorus is pleasing. Taken as a whole, "The MerryWhirl" ranke amongst the very best tabloids that have been heard at the Bijou this season.

Keith Vaudeville.

(At the Forsyth.)

One of the most delightful groups of Keith vaudeville features ever introduced in Atlanta, serve to entertain great gatherings at the busy Forsyth this week. Gertrude Vanderbilt and George Moore head the program with a line singing and dancing novelty. "Ideal," really the champion lady swimmer and diver, gives a splendid exhibition of fancy diving and swimming, and has not failed to entertain. "Ideal" fits her name exactly. She is a perfect woman and has become a popular favorite. Minnie Allen presents an act that is unlike any that has been seen in vaudeville.

"Quo Vadis" Pictures.

(At the Grand.)

"Quo Vadis" at the Grand is still drawing big crowds during the second week of the run of the sensational pictures. The wonders of Rome in the days of Nero have been seen by thousands of Atlanta people and hundreds have returned for a second peep at them most wonderful "movies." The pictures are exhibited at matinee and night performances each day. The theater is comfortable and inviting, and "Quo Vadis" is the sort of attraction that is keeping the Aster theater in New York crowded to its doors. Next week, for the first in Atlanta, the Thomas Edison Talking Pictures will be exhibited at matinee and night performances daily.

FIFTH REGIMENT WILL CAMP AT ST. SIMONS

Officers and men of the Fifth regiment are digging out their khaki uniforms and campaign hats in preparation for the big trip of the summer, their vacation outing at St. Simons island. The regiment will leave on the night of July 8 on two special trains over the A., B. & A. railroad, and spend eight days on the island.

Plenty of drill work in the early hours and the rest of the day for swimming, surf bathing, baseball and general "camping out fun" make up the program for the eight days in camp. More than 600 officers and men will go.

"We have met with the heartiest cooperation from employers," said Colonel E. E. Pomeroy yesterday. "Several weeks ago we tok the matter up with the business people who employ members of the regiment and asked that they fix vacation schedules so our men could get away on July 8, and in most instances we found the employers ready and anxious to assist us. We haven't asked any extra time off, but only that the summer vacations be adjusted to suit our schedule."

More men will go to St. Simons this years than ever before. The full strength of the regiment will be there, 12 full companies. The reports of the fun the Governor's Horse Guard is having at St. Simons have aroused the members of the Fifth and they are anxious to make the trip. The island has become the favorite camping ground of the military and has been chosen by the Fifth regiment for several summers.

Desirable Peachtree Lots.

There is no use in going into detail in regard to Peachtree street property. Every person in Atlanta knows Peachtree street, knows its desirability, and knows its PRICE, which as a rule is just a little beyond some of us.

We have had listed with us some unusually pretty building lots, some this side of Buckhead and some just beyond. These lots have a frontage of 100 feet on Peachtree, with a depth of about 425 feet, being beautifully shaded.

The price on these particular lots is from $10.00 to $15.00 under the market, making the PRICE within the reach of anyone who contemplates a Peachtree Home.
